The aggregate quantity imported during the month was 14,57,064 maunds or 38·85 per cent. over the figures for the corresponding period of 1896, while the exports were only 3,65,922 maunds or 6·86 per cent in excess The staple food-grain of which the largest quantity was registered was rice : of this 36¾ lakhs of maunds were imported against 26 lakhs in 1896, the export being 35½ against 38½ lakhs. The imports and exports of paddy were double the figures of 1896. The wheat trade showed a decrease in both cases, viz., in imports of 63,139 maunds and in exports of 6,693 maunds. Under gram and pulses both the imports and exports advanced by 1,10,166 maunds and 2,89,188 maunds respectively. In the case of "Other food-grains" the imports showed an increase of 39,908 maunds and the exports of 62,655 maunds.

As was expected, a decrease is noticeable in all the staples exported from Bengal to Foreign Ports, especially under rice, the shipments of which fell from 10½ lakhs of maunds to 5¾ lakhs of maunds. The exports of gram and pulses were about $\frac{1}{13}$th of those in 1896, owing to a decline in the despatches from Calcutta

As regards the trade between Bengal and other Provinces in India, the following statement furnishes the necessary details :—

Both the imports and exports showed a considerable increase, viz., 9,00.016 maunds under imports and 8,18,543 maunds under exports. In the import trade the greatest fluctuations occurred under rice, which was imported largely ; Burma alone contributing 9,16,870 maunds or 97 31 per cent. of the total trade. The largest decrease was in wheat owing to a smaller despatch from the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

Out of the total exports shown above, the quantity despatched to the United Provnces alone amounted to 13,82,025 maunds, as against 3,48,363 maunds in the corresponding month of the previous year, as will be seen from the figures given below :—

The total export of rice from Bengal to Assam was 57,063 maunds against 26,653 maunds, Calcutta contributing 45,664 against 22,140 maunds. The consignments of gram and pulses and other food-grains sent to the Punjab aggregated 2,408 maunds against 1,402 maunds and 1,917 maunds against nil respectively.

Following the arrangement adopted in the preceding month, the internal traffic of these Provinces will be dealt with separately under the several heads noted below :—

(1) Inter-district trade of Bengal Proper.
(2) Trade between Bengal Proper and Bihar.
(3) Inter di-trict trade of Bihar.

The following statement shows the total food-grain traffic under head (1)—

A trifling decrease of 41,408 maunds occurred in the imports, but the export trade showed an advance of 4,23,784 maunds which was due to large despatches of rice (3,84,572 maunds against 10,953 maunds) to the Patna Division, chiefly from the Burdwan Division and Calcutta.

The inter-district trade, division by division, of the Bihar Province is illustrated in the following abstract:—

The local trade of the Patna Division showed a falling off of 78,502 maunds, of which 69,287 maunds occurred in rice. The exports to the districts in the Bhagalpur Division also declined by 8,021 maunds mainly under the head "Other food grains" (6,681 maunds). The local trade of the Bhagalpur Division was practically unchanged, but the exports to the Patna Division showed an increase of 77,197 maunds, which is chiefly observable under other food-grains.

Statement shewing the quantities of food-grains imported into and exported from each district in the Lower Provinces carried by rail, inland steamer, country boat, road and sea, during the month of January 1897, as compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

IN Notification No. 110 of the 9th August 1880, issued under the provision of Act III of 1876, Government reserved to itself the rights of property in the water of the river channels known as the Daha, the Dhanai, the Gandaki and the Gangri, and their appendant tributaries, including the Rupan Chap Sota.

2. The revenue administration of the Saran Canals is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Sone Circle. The Executive Engineer of the Gandak Division is, as Canal Officer under the Irrigation Act [III (B.C.) of 1876], charged with the proper maintenance and management of the canals, and with the control of the supply of water in them. All orders passed by him, or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer, are under the terms of that Act subject to correction on appeal to the Collector of Saran.

3. The following rules will be applicable to all irrigation effected from the Saran Canals in the kharif season of 1897-98.

4. Any person who wishes to make bunds in the canals must obtain the written permission of the Canal Subdivisional Officer before doing so.

5. Any person who constructs bunds in the canals, who interferes with the supply of water in them, or who takes water from them without the written permission of a duly authorised person, will render himself liable to the penalties defined in the Irrigation Act.

6. Any person who requires water from the channels of the Saran Canals must apply either to (a) the Patrol, (b) the Sectional Officer, or (c) the Subdivisional Canal Officer, who will take his signature on the Form A attached. If the application is approved, the Canal Subdivisional or Sectional Officer (all of whom are hereby empowered in that behalf) will grant a permit for irrigation in Form B.

7. Any person who holds a permit in Form B will be allowed to take canal water for irrigation, and he will be charged for it at the rates detailed in the following schedule :—

Schedule of rates for irrigation.

Crop.	Rate per Saran bigha. Rs. A. P.
For bhadoi or rice crops irrigated between the 1st June and 25th of October	1 8 0

These rates apply equally to irrigation by lift and flow.

8. Persons who take water from any of the river channels named in rule I, without a permit in Form B, and persons who waste the water, are liable to be charged water-rates, under sections 79 and 80 of the Irrigation Act, at rates which shall be fixed by the Subdivisional Canal Officer, but which shall not be greater than twice the rate which would have been payable for licensed irrigation.

9. All water-rates assessed under rule 7 will be due on the 15th of December.

Water-rates assessed under rule 8 will be due as soon as the demand statement has been prepared.

10. The demand statements for water-rates due will be sent to the Collector as soon as possible after the irrigation in any village is completed, and a parcha, showing the area and amount assessed against each cultivator, will be sent to the rate-payer as soon as possible.

11. Any claim for remission of water-rates under section 76 (b), or for compensation under section 76 (c) of the Irrigation Act, must be presented in writing to the Subdivisional Canal Officer at least twenty days before the crop is cut. The Subdivisional Canal Officer shall, after such enquiry as he may consider necessary, pass orders on the application. Any application for remission presented direct to the Collector must be forwarded for the orders of the Canal Officer.

12. Objections to the demand statements must be presented within thirty days of the date on which the parcha is issued by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. He will pass orders on such objections.

13. Any person who is not satisfied with an order passed by the Subdivisional Canal Officer may appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Irrigation Act. Such appeal must be accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against, and it must be submitted to the Collector within thirty days of the date of the order.

14. Remission statements must be signed by the Divisional Canal Officer. Any statement so signed shall be sufficient authority for a refund by the Collector.

15. No guarantee can be given either as to the volume or duration of the supply or of the delivery of any quantity of water at any particular point of any canal.

16. The Canal Officer will regulate the water passing into, and along, any canal to the best of his ability to meet requirements. If there is any difficulty in supplying all the channels, the Canal Officer will endeavour to divide the available supply as fairly as possible. At the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, the 11th day of August 1884.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by Order in Council made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and dated the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, Her Majesty, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, was pleased to direct that on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea contained in an Order in Council dated the ninth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and the additions by an Order in Council dated the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, made thereto, should be annulled, and that there should be substituted therefor the new Regulations contained in the first schedule to the said first-named Order in Council, and that the same should from and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, apply to ships of the countries mentioned in the said second schedule thereto, whether within British jurisdiction or not.

And whereas by the Orders in Council dated respectively the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the twenty-sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, the eighteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, the twenty-third day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and the second day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the operation of the Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the first schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, should be suspended from time to time.

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that, so far as regards British ships and Boats, the regulations hereinafter set forth shall be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Act, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council is pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four the regulations contained in the schedule, hereto shall, so far as regards British ships and boats, be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN THIS ORDER.

Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea.

Article 1.—In the following rules every steam ship which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing ship; and every steam ship which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a ship under steam.

Rules concerning Lights.

Article 2.—The lights mentioned in the following Articles numbered 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, and no others, shall be carried in all weathers, from sunset to sunrise.

Article 3.—A seagoing steam ship when under way shall carry:—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the ship exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the ship, viz., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Article 4.—A steam ship, when towing another ship shall, in addition to her side lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 3 feet apart, so as to distinguish her from other steam ships. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position, as the white light which other steam ships are required to carry.

Article 5 (a).—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, which from any accident is not under command, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and, if a steam ship, in place of that light, three red lights in globular lanterns, each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in a vertical line one over the other not less than three feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter.

(b) A ship, whether a steam ship or sailing ship employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and if a steam ship, in place of that light, three lights in globular lanterns each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in vertical line over one another, not less than 6 feet apart; the highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character that the red lights shall be visible at the same distance as the white light. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three shapes not less than two feet in diameter, of which the top and bottom shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The ships referred to in this Article, when not making any way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other ships as signals that the ship showing them is not under command, and cannot therefore get out of the way. The signals to be made by ships in distress and requiring assistance are contained in Article 27.

Article 6.—A sailing ship under way or being towed shall carry the same lights as are provided by Article 3 for a steam ship under way, with the exception of the white light, which she shall never carry.

Article 7.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels during bad weather, the green and red side lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept on deck, on their respective sides of the vessel, ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 8.—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, when at anchor, shall carry, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light, in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least one mile.

Article 9.—A pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall not carry the light required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

A pilot vessel, when not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other ships.

Article 10.—Open boats and fishing vessels of less than 20 tons net registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side, and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

The following portion of this Article applies only to fishing vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre :—

(a) All fishing vessels and fishing boats of 20 tons net registered tonnage, or upward, when under way and when not required by the following regulations in this Article to carry and show the lights therein named shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.

(b) All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; and so that the horizontal distance between them measured in a line with the keel of the vessel shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.

(c) A vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out shall carry the same lights as a vessel when engaged in fishing with drift nets.

(d) If a vessel when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall show the light and make the fog signal for a vessel at anchor.

(e) Fishing vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required, to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after part of the vessel, expecting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.

(f) Every fishing vessel and every open boat when at anchor between sunset and sunrise shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

(g) In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes make a blast with her fog horn and ring her bell alternately.

Article 11. A ship which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned ship a white light or a flare-up light.

Sound signals for fog, &c.

Article 12. A steam ship shall be provided with a steam whistle or other efficient steam sound signal, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstructions, and with an efficient fog horn to be sounded by a bellows or other mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing ship shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, or falling snow, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows; that is to say,—

(a) A steam ship under way shall make with her steam whistle, or other steam sound signal, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A sailing ship under way shall make with her fog horn, at intervals of not more than two minutes, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(c) A steam ship and a sailing ship, when not under way, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes ring the bell.

Speed of ships to be moderate in fog, &c.

Article 13. Every ship, whether a sailing ship or steam ship, shall, in a fog, mist, or falling snow, go at a moderate speed.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Article 14. When two sailing ships are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:—

(a) A ship which is running free shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled.

(b) A ship which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free with the wind on different sides, the ship which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free with the wind on the same side, the ship which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the ship which is to leeward.

(e) A ship which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other ship.

Article 15. If two ships under steam are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where ships are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two ships which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Regulations require a bell to be used, a drum will be substituted on board Turkish vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are, when each of the two ships is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each ship sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line with her own; and by night, to cases in which each ship is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a ship sees another ahead crossing her own course or by night to cases where the red light of one ship is opposed to the red light of the other or where the green light of one ship is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 16. If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 17. If two ships, one of which is a sailing ship and the other a steam ship, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam ship shall keep out of the way of the sailing ship.

Article 18. Every steam ship, when approaching another ship, so as to involve risk of collision, shall slacken her speed or stop and reverse, if necessary.

Article 19. In taking any course authorised or required by these regulations, a steam ship under way may indicate that course to any other ship which she has in sight by the following signals on her steam whistle, viz.—

One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean "I am going full speed astern."

The use of these signals is optional, but if they are used the course of the ship must be in accordance with the signal made.

Article 20. Notwithstanding anything contained in any preceding Article, every ship, whether a sailing ship or a steam ship, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken ship.

Article 21. In narrow channels every steam ship shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such ship.

Article 22. Where by the above rules one of two ships is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course.

Article 23. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

No ship under any circumstances to neglect proper precautions.

Article 24. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any ship, or the owner, or master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 25. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland navigation.

Special lights for Squadrons and Convoys.

Article 26. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for ships sailing under convoy.

Article 27. When a ship is in distress and requires assistance from other ships or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, that is to say:

In the day time—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distant signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball.

At night—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the ship (as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, &c.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR.

The 27th day of November 1896.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

And whereas by an Order in Council dated the 11th day of August 1884, and expressed to be made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September 1884, the regulations contained in the Schedule thereto (being regulations for preventing collisions at sea and as to signals of distress) should be substituted for the regulations contained in the First Schedule to an Order in Council made under the same Act and on such joint recommendations as aforesaid and dated the 14th day of August 1879:

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that the Regulations for preventing collisions at sea contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, except the Article numbered 10 in such Regulations, should, on and after the 1st day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in Schedule I hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor, with the exception aforesaid and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is expedient that the Regulations or Rules as to signals of distress contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, should, on and after the said first day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the rules as to signals of distress contained in Schedule II hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas the provisions of section one of the Rules Publication Act, 1893, have been complied with:

C. L. PEEL.

SCHEDULE I.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following rules every steam vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, &c.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam vessel when under way shall carry—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4 (a).—A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles, and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this Article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signal that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 31.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20, tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when underway, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a) (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them, they shall be provided with the following lights:—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry:

(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steamboats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or two other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars, or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a) and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Pilot vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed 15 minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

*Article 9.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 150 feet in lenght, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40 feet above the hull, one such light and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12.—Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

* This Article will deal with regulations affecting fishing boats, and will be the subject of another Order, which will be submitted to Her Majesty for approval at a later date.

Article 14.—A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound-Signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given :

1. By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.
2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn, to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz. :—

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 2 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.

(e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in sub-divisions (a) and (c) of the Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing-vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal at intervals of not more than 1 minute.

Speed of Ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz :—

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is close hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Rules require a bell to be used, a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board sea-going vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen any where but ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21.—Where by any of the Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam vessel, which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft, her beam, i.e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking, that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forwarded of or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of fair-way or mid channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines, or trawls. This Rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing-vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and construing these Rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one seconds duration

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in taking any course authorized or required by these Rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessel under any Circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29.—Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew, thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

SCHEDULE II.

Distress Signals.

Article 31.—When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz.:—

In the day time—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

A night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel, etc.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

EDUCATIONAL PROSPECTUS.

THE Calcutta Medical College Session, 1897-98, will commence on the 14th June next. Students who may be desirous of commencing their studies are requested to apply to the Principal between the hours of 11 A.M. and 4 P.M. on or before 1st June.

Those students who may be selected are expected to enter formally and commence attendance at the College upon the 14th.

2. No person shall be enrolled as a matriculated student who has not previously passed the First Arts examination of the Calcutta or an Indian University, or a preliminary Arts examination of the United Kingdom recognised by the British General Medical Council.

3. All matriculated students of the College shall pay Rs. 15 on entrance, Rs. 35 on the 1st June, and Rs. 35 on 1st November of each year. Rupees 6 extra will be required from each student for each course of dissections. Fees once paid cannot be refunded

Muhammadan students are required to pay Rs. 15 on entrance and half fee, i.e. Rs. 17-8, per session. The remaining half fees are charged to the Mohsin Fund.

4. No free presentations will be awarded at the beginning of the session, but the fees shall be refunded to the 10 students who passed highest in all subjects at the end of their first year of study.

5. Any matriculated student of the College may, with the permission of the Principal and the Professor of the subject, attend courses of lectures or departments of hospital practice in addition to the full curriculum for the year, and shall be entitled to certificates of attendance at such extra lectures, if the Professor is satisfied that he or she has really studied the subject. The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following:—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject in one year ...	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice ...	60

6. Any matriculated student who leaves the College before completing his University course, with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe, may receive certificates of attendance of lectures on payment of fees at the rate fixed in the foregoing rule. But in calculating the sum to be so paid, the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

7. Any person not being a matriculated student of the College who wishes to attend any course of lectures, or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and Professor of the subject on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in paragraph 5. If he has passed the Entrance examination of the University, he shall receive certificates of attendance at lectures. If he has not passed the Entrance examination, he shall receive no class certificates.

8 At the end of their first year, students will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Chemistry, and Botany. Those who gain not less than 20 per cent. in two subjects, and not less than 15 per cent. in a third, will be eligible for promotion to the second-year class. Those who fail to gain the aforesaid percentage of marks will not be eligible for promotion, but will go through the first-year class again.

9 Students of the second year will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Physiology, and Materia Medica. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. in two subjects and 15 per cent. in a third will be entitled to go up in the following March or April for the Preliminary Scientific Examination of the Calcutta University, the subjects of which are Chemistry and Botany. Those who (after passing the College test) fail at the University examination will be entitled, equally with those who pass it, to join the third-year class, at the end of which the former will have to present themselves, as at present, for the combined Preliminary Scientific and 1st L.M.S (or 1st M.B.) examination.

10. Those students who fail at the College test examination of the second year will not be debarred from going up for the Preliminary Scientific examination, but will be encouraged to do so in order to get that stage over; but whether they pass or fail at the University examination, they will be relegated for a further year to the second-year class, provided that those who pass the University examination will not be required to attend the courses in those subjects in which they have passed.

11. Students of the third year will present themselves for the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination of the Calcutta University. Those who fail at this examination will be relegated for a further year to the third-year class.

12. Students of the first or second-year class who fail a second time, at the same stage, to gain promotion to the next higher class, will be removed from the College and will not be entitled to re-admission. Third-year students who fail a second time will be liable to removal from the College; but if they are specially recommended by the Principal, they may again be relegated to the third-year class, on payment of the fees laid down in Rule 16, and re-admitted to the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination, and this concession may be allowed for any number of years at the discretion of the Principal.

13. Students of the fourth-year class will be required to pass a College test examination in Surgery, Medicine, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. of the marks in three subjects, and 15 per cent. in a fourth, will be eligible for promotion to the fifth-year class. Those who fail will be relegated to the fourth-year class for a further year. The examination in Surgery and Medicine will be both theoretical and clinical; but those students who can obtain from the Visiting Surgeon or Physician, to whose wards they have been attached, a certificate that they have really profited by their instruction in either subject, will be excused the clinical examination in that subject.

14. Students who fail at the 2nd L.M.S or 2nd M.B. examination will have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they have failed, in accordance with the regulations of the University.

15. The Principal will determine the maximum number that may be admitted to the first-year class. Students who have failed at the test examination of the first-year will have a prior claim to re-admission over new students.

16. Students re-admitted to a class after failure at the test examination will be required to pay half the regular fee for the session (Rs. 35), but extra fees as for dissection (Rs. 6) in full. The half fee must be paid at the commencement of the session in June. Those, however, who, after failing either at the Preliminary Scientific Examination or at the final examination, have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they failed, shall be required to pay for such lectures a fee of Rs. 20 for one subject, Rs. 30 for two, and Rs. 35 for three. Exceptions to this latter rule may be made in special cases by the Director of Public Instruction on the recommendation of the Principal.

17. College prizes and certificates of honour are open for competition to matriculated students of the College, military medical pupils, and female certificate classes. College scholarships (vide paragraph 18) are awarded only to matriculated students of the College.

Scholarships of the same value are awarded to ten students at the commencement of their third year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of their second year, provided they have passed either the Preliminary Scientific L.M.S. or M.B. examination.

Ten senior scholarships of Rs. 12 per mensem and free tuition are awarded annually to students at the commencement of their fourth year, on the results of the Test and Honour examinations at the end of their third year, provided they have passed either the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination. These scholarships are tenable for two years, provided the holder passes creditably the Test and Honour examinations at the end of his fourth year. In the event of any scholarship being forfeited under this condition, it may be awarded for one year to any student of the fifth year who has fulfilled the conditions and is not the holder of any scholarship. These scholarships shall not be awarded to students who have gained the Durga Charan Laha scholarship of Rs. 30 per mensem or any other scholarship.

Students who from any cause fail to pass their University examinations at their first chance are not eligible for any of these scholarships, either junior or senior.

INDIA, SOUTH—INDIAN OCEAN.

Caution—Reported icebergs.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners No. 7, dated 15th January 1897, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 201 of 1897) that icebergs are still being reported in unusual numbers in comparatively low latitudes in the Southern Indian ocean between the meridians of 40° E. and 84° E., thus:—

(1) On 10th January 1897 the Dutch barque Concordia passed icebergs between lats 42° S. and 43° S., and longs. 46° E. and 48° E.

(2) The steam-vessel Kaikoura, from 10th to 16th January 1897, between lats. 45° S. to 48° S., longs. 42° E. to 80° E., passed many icebergs, especially in about lat. 48° S., longs. 59° E. to 65° E.

(3) The steam-vessel Port Chalmers, from 13th to about 18th January 1897, between lats. 44° S. and 46° S., and longs. 45° E. and 75° E., passed many bergs, much broken up in appearance.

(4) The steam-vessel Hubbuck, from 17th to 22nd January 1897, between lats. 45° S. to 47° S., longs. 40° E. to 74° E., passed icebergs, one in the last-mentioned longitude about 5 miles long.

(5) The steam-vessel Gulf of Lions, from 12th to 18th January 1897, between lats. 44° S. to 47 S., longs. 41° E. to 80° E., passed many icebergs, some said to be 400 feet in height.

(6) The steam-vessel Cornwall, on 28th January 1897, passed icebergs in lat. 41° S., longs. 52° to 58° E.

(7) The steam-vessel Nairnshire, from 8th to about 18th February 1897, between lats. 43° S. and 47° S., longs. 45° E. to 84° E., passed many icebergs; and during a fog on the 8th February was in collision with a low berg.

As it is not likely that ice in such unusual quantities will quickly disappear, the Seaman is cautioned that the route recommended in the Admiralty book of Ocean Passages, 1896, pages 138, 139, should be followed; and particular attention is directed to the reason on page 139 for not recommending a higher parallel than 40° S.

WATER-SUPPLY.

No. 2841L.S.-G.—The 25th May 1897.—The following report of the progress made in the district of Bhagalpur in collecting and placing on record the chief facts regarding water-supply is published for general information.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 153L., dated Bhagalpur, the 11th May 1897.

From—W. B. OLDHAM, ESQ., C.I.E., Commissioner of the Bhagalpur Division and Sonthal Parganas,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

IN continuation of my No. 1098L., dated 13th January 1897, I have the honour to submit the following report regarding the water-supply in each district of this Division and the action taken to improve it for the quarter ending March 1897.

2. Preparation of registers.—In the Monghyr Municipality the prescribed registers are still being prepared from the reports made by the Ward Commissioners on the water-supply of the town.

3. In Bhagalpur the Local Boards have prepared registers for thanas Amarpur, Supaul, and Partabganj with the help of the local police. The registers for the remaining thanas are in course of preparation.

4. In Purnea forms I and II were reported to have been wrongly prepared, and were found defective. Revised forms of No. I for all the thanas in the Kishanganj subdivision have been received, and the Chairman of the Araria Local Board reports that Return No. II for 105 out of 159 villages have been revised. In the Sadar subdivision form No. II has been revised for all the thanas except Gondwara, and Register No. I is being compiled.

5. In Malda form No. II was completed by the District Board some time ago, and form No. I is in course of preparation.

The registers in forms I and II have since been prepared by the Old Malda Municipality.

6. In the subdivisions of Deoghur and Jamtara in the Sonthal Parganas it is reported that the registers in forms I and II prescribed by Government Circular No. 8T.M., dated 15th May 1896, have been completed as far as was possible. In the Pakour subdivision a register in form No. II has been opened. In the Godda subdivision enquiries have been made in 50 villages regarding the existing sources of water-supply. The Deputy Commissioner has not yet received any report from the Subdivisional Officers of Rajmahal and Dumka.

7. Water-supply and improvement.—The Commissioners of the Monghyr Municipality have provided a sum of Rs. 800 in the current year's budget for water-works, and intend to sink a few more wells in the town. The town has, however, an ample supply of good drinking-water from the Ganges. The Magistrate has submitted no report as regards the District Board's area, but there is no scarcity of water-supply in any part of it.

8. It is reported that the question of taking steps to improve the existing sources of water-supply will be considered by the Bhagalpur District Board as soon as the information called for from the Local Boards is received. In the town of Bhagalpur itself the water-works extension has been completed, and all the wards are now supplied with filtered water.

9. In Purnea, since the submission of the last report, three more estimates have been sanctioned for repair and renewal of the existing wells on the roadsides.

10. In Malda Rs. 220 were spent during the quarter in re-excavating a tank at Parbatipur in the high land tract. This work was not completed at the close of the quarter. Arrangements were made for digging a new tank at Maharajpur, and for re-excavating tanks at Nachol, Nazirpur, and Pandua. During the quarter zamindars re-excavated a large number of tanks, thus relieving and helping the Board. No steps were taken in either of the little municipalities—English Bazar and Old Malda, which stand on the Mahananda, the water of which is always excellent. One pucka well, however, is being reclaimed in the former Municipality, and in the latter an attempt has been made to induce the Raja Shoshi Shekhar Roy of Tahirpur to cleanse his tank (Babakar), which occupies a central position in the town.

11. The Municipal Commissioners of Deoghur in the Sonthal Parganas have resolved to sink a public municipal well in the hospital compound and to deepen the school well.

The Manager of the Rohini estate under the Court of Wards has been applied to to repair the Haridrakund tank.

The Manager of the Lachmipur estate has similarly been applied to for thorough repairs to the "Bhairab Talao" at a rough estimated cost of Rs. 800.

12. The Deputy Commissioner reports that for Deoghur and Jamtara subdivisions the water-supply is said to be sufficient for the wants of the population. Besides tanks and wells, there are in Jamtara numerous springs, water-courses and rivers, which, if uncontaminated, would provide wholesome and abundant water to the people. Steps are being taken to put a stop to the practice of contaminating these sources by the cremation of dead bodies.

13. In Deoghur Babu Ram Charan Singh Ghatwal wishes to vest his tank "Jamuna" in mauza Bamangama in the Deputy Commissioner as representing Government.

14. The Subdivisional Officer of Godda has, it is reported, taken steps to improve the tanks, bandhs, and wells which were found to be defective.

Imports.—The total imports of rice during the week ending the 14th May 1897 amounted to 233,058 cwts. against 37,176 cwts. in the corresponding period in 1896. Of this quantity, Burma contributed 199,998 cwts., Chandbally 24,501 cwts., Balasore 8,076 cwts., and Madras 483 cwts Owing chiefly to the import of 56,057 cwts of paddy from Burma, the figures under that head rose from 9,558 cwts. to 56,829 cwts. The imports of gram and pulse were 2,908 cwts. against nil in the corresponding week of 1896, Chandbali contributing 2,505 cwts. and Rangoon 403 cwts.

Exports.—In the following statement the total quantity of each kind of food-grain exported by sea during the week ending 14th May 1897 is compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896 :—

Foreign Ports.

The exports of rice from Calcutta to foreign ports declined from 16,809 cwts. in the second week of May 1896 to 8,649 cwts. in the period under report. During the week ending 14th May 1896, Natal took 8,066 cwts., while in the week under report nothing was sent to that port; Ceylon received 2,786 cwts., against 5,063 cwts, in the corresponding week of last year. An increase, however, occurred in the shipment to United Kingdom, viz., 5,861 cwts. against 3,149 cwts. In paddy there was no trade against 1,097 cwts. in the week ending 14th May 1896. The decline in the wheat trade was almost entirely owing to there being no shipments to the United Kingdom, against 5,005 cwts. in the week ending 14th May 1896. The exports of gram and pulse to the United Kingdom diminished from 9,603 cwts., in the corresponding week of 1896, to only 206 cwts. in the week under review.

Indian Ports.

The falling off of 9,904 cwts. in the exports of rice to Indian ports, viz., from 10,291 cwts. to 387 cwts., was due to a decrease of 6,502 cwts. in the shipments to Bombay, and of 2,987 cwts. to Madras ports. The trade in gram and pulse was one-third that of 1896, viz., 3,361 cwts. against 9,630 cwts, the decline being chiefly due to the exports to Bombay having diminished by 5,292 cwts. The variations in the other heads are unimportant and call for no remarks.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—

Imports. Owing chiefly to the receipts of rice and paddy from Burma, Chittagong showed a rise of 12,980 cwts.

Exports. The falling off of 1,093 cwts. in the export trade of Chittagong was principally due to the cessation of despatches of rice to Cochin. The absence of exports of rice to Columbo, Cochin and Bombay accounts for the decline in the trade of Puri, while that of Balasore and Cuttack improved by 11,102 cwts. and 11,358 cwts., respectively, mainly on account of larger despatches of rice to Calcutta and Mauritius.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; ≤ lightning, d, drizzling rain.

WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE SARAN CANALS.

No. 145.—Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 99 and 78 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to make the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Saran Canals during the kharif season of 1897-98.

A. D. MCARTHUR, Colonel, R.E.,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

IN Notification No. 110 of the 9th August 1880, issued under the provision of Act III of 1876, Government reserved to itself the rights of property in the water of the river channels known as the Daha, the Dhanai, the Gandaki and the Gangri, and their appendant tributaries, including the Rupan Chap Sota.

2. The revenue administration of the Saran Canals is vested in the Superintending Engineer of the Sone Circle. The Executive Engineer of the Gandak Division is, as Canal Officer under the Irrigation Act [III (B.C.) of 1876], charged with the proper maintenance and management of the canals, and with the control of the supply of water in them. All orders passed by him, or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer, are under the terms of that Act subject to correction on appeal to the Collector of Saran.

3. The following rules will be applicable to all irrigation effected from the Saran Canals in the kharif season of 1897-98.

4. Any person who wishes to make bunds in the canals must obtain the written permission of the Canal Subdivisional Officer before doing so.

5. Any person who constructs bunds in the canals, who interferes with the supply of water in them, or who takes water from them without the written permission of a duly authorised person, will render himself liable to the penalties defined in the Irrigation Act.

6. Any person who requires water from the channels of the Saran Canals must apply either to (a) the Patrol, (b) the Sectional Officer, or (c) the Subdivisional Canal Officer, who will take his signature on the Form A attached. If the application is approved, the Canal Subdivisional or Sectional Officer (all of whom are hereby empowered in that behalf) will grant a permit for irrigation in Form B.

7. Any person who holds a permit in Form B will be allowed to take canal water for irrigation, and he will be charged for it at the rates detailed in the following schedule:—

Schedule of rates for irrigation.

Crop.	Rate per Saran bigha.
	Rs. A. P.
For bhadoi or rice crops irrigated between the 1st June and 25th of October	1 8 0

These rates apply equally to irrigation by lift and flow.

8. Persons who take water from any of the river channels named in rule I, without a permit in Form B, and persons who waste the water, are liable to be charged water-rates, under sections 79 and 80 of the Irrigation Act, at rates which shall be fixed by the Subdivisional Canal Officer, but which shall not be greater than twice the rate which would have been payable for licensed irrigation.

9. All water-rates assessed under rule 7 will be due on the 15th of December.

Water-rates assessed under rule 8 will be due as soon as the demand statement has been prepared.

10. The demand statements for water-rates due will be sent to the Collector as soon as possible after the irrigation in any village is completed, and a parcha, showing the area and amount assessed against each cultivator, will be sent to the rate-payer as soon as possible.

11. Any claim for remission of water-rates under section 76 (b), or for compensation under section 76 (c) of the Irrigation Act, must be presented in writing to the Subdivisional Canal Officer at least twenty days before the crop is cut. The Subdivisional Canal Officer shall, after such enquiry as he may consider necessary, pass orders on the application. Any application for remission presented direct to the Collector must be forwarded for the orders of the Canal Officer.

12. Objections to the demand statements must be presented within thirty days of the date on which the parcha is issued by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. He will pass orders on such objections.

13. Any person who is not satisfied with an order passed by the Subdivisional Canal Officer may appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Irrigation Act. Such appeal must be accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against, and it must be submitted to the Collector within thirty days of the date of the order.

14. Remission statements must be signed by the Divisional Canal Officer. Any statement so signed shall be sufficient authority for a refund by the Collector.

15. No guarantee can be given either as to the volume or duration of the supply or of the delivery of any quantity of water at any particular point of any canal.

16. The Canal Officer will regulate the water passing into, and along, any canal to the best of his ability to meet requirements. If there is any difficulty in supplying all the channels, the Canal Officer will endeavour to divide the available supply as fairly as possible. The Canal Officer shall have complete control of the distribution of water.

At the Court at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, the 11th day of August 1884.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by Order in Council made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and dated the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, Her Majesty, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, was pleased to direct that on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea contained in an Order in Council dated the ninth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and the additions by an Order in Council dated the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, made thereto, should be annulled, and that there should be substituted therefor the new Regulations contained in the first schedule to the said first-named Order in Council, and that the same should from and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, apply to ships of the countries mentioned in the said second schedule thereto, whether within British jurisdiction or not.

And whereas by the Orders in Council dated respectively the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the twenty-sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, the eighteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, the twenty-third day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and the second day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the operation of the Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the first schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, should be suspended from time to time.

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that, so far as regards British ships and Boats, the regulations hereinafter set forth shall be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the powers vested in Her by the said recited Act, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council is pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four the regulations contained in the schedule, hereto shall, so far as regards British ships and boats, be substituted for the regulations contained in the first schedule to the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN THIS ORDER.

Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea.

Article 1.—In the following rules every steam ship which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing ship; and every steam ship which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a ship under steam.

Rules concerning Lights.

Article 2.—The lights mentioned in the following Articles numbered 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, and no others, shall be carried in all weathers, from sunset to sunrise.

Article 3.—A seagoing steam ship when under way shall carry :—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the ship exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the ship, viz., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Article 4.—A steam ship, when towing another ship shall, in addition to her side lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 3 feet apart, so as to distinguish her from other steam ships. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position, as the white light which other steam ships are required to carry.

Article 5 (a).—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, which from any accident is not under command, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and, if a steam ship, in place of that light, three red lights in globular lanterns, each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in a vertical line one over the other not less than three feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter.

(b) A ship, whether a steam ship or sailing ship employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and if a steam ship, in place of that light, three lights in globular lanterns each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in vertical line over one another, not less than 6 feet apart; the highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character that the red lights shall be visible at the same distance as the white light. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three shapes not less than two feet in diameter, of which the top and bottom shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The ships referred to in this Article, when not making any way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other ships as signals that the ship showing them is not under command, and cannot therefore get out of the way. The signals to be made by ships in distress and requiring assistance are contained in Article 27.

Article 6.—A sailing ship under way or being towed shall carry the same lights as are provided by Article 3 for a steam ship under way, with the exception of the white light, which she shall never carry.

Article 7.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels during bad weather, the green and red side lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept on deck, on their respective sides of the vessel, ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 8.—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, when at anchor, shall carry, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light, in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least one mile.

Article 9.—A pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall not carry the light required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

A pilot vessel, when not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other ships.

Article 10.—Open boats and fishing vessels of less than 20 tons net registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side, and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

The following portion of this Article applies only to fishing vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre:—

(a) All fishing vessels and fishing boats of 20 tons net registered tonnage, or upward, when under way and when not required by the following regulations in this Article to carry and show the lights therein named shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.

(b) All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; and so that the horizontal distance between them measured in a line with the keel of the vessel shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.

(c) A vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out shall carry the same lights as a vessel when engaged in fishing with drift nets.

(d) If a vessel when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall show the light and make the fog signal for a vessel at anchor.

(e) Fishing vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required, to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after part of the vessel, expecting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.

(f) Every fishing vessel and every open boat when at anchor between sunset and sunrise shall exhibit a white light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least one mile.

(g) In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes make a blast with her fog horn and ring her bell alternately.

Article 11. A ship which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned ship a white light or a flare-up light.

Sound signals for fog, &c.

Article 12. A steam ship shall be provided with a steam whistle or other efficient steam sound signal, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstructions, and with an efficient fog horn to be sounded by a bellows or other mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing ship shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, or falling snow, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows; that is to say,—

(a) A steam ship under way shall make with her steam whistle, or other steam sound signal, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A sailing ship under way shall make with her fog horn, at intervals of not more than two minutes, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(c) A steam ship and a sailing ship, when not under way, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes ring the bell.

Speed of ships to be moderate in fog, &c.

Article 13. Every ship, whether a sailing ship or steam ship, shall, in a fog, mist, or falling snow, go at a moderate speed.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Article 14. When two sailing ships are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:—

(a) A ship which is running free shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled.

(b) A ship which is close-hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free with the wind on different sides, the ship which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free with the wind on the same side, the ship which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the ship which is to leeward.

(e) A ship which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other ship.

Article 15. If two ships under steam are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where ships are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two ships which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Regulations require a bell to be used, a drum will be substituted on board Turkish vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are, when each of the two ships is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each ship sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line with her own; and by night, to cases in which each ship is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a ship sees another ahead crossing her own course or by night to cases where the red light of one ship is opposed to the red light of the other or where the green light of one ship is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 16. If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 17. If two ships, one of which is a sailing ship and the other a steam ship, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam ship shall keep out of the way of the sailing ship.

Article 18. Every steam ship, when approaching another ship, so as to involve risk of collision, shall slacken her speed or stop and reverse, if necessary.

Article 19. In taking any course authorised or required by these regulations, a steam ship under way may indicate that course to any other ship which she has in sight by the following signals on her steam whistle, viz.—

One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean "I am going full speed astern."

The use of these signals is optional, but if they are used the course of the ship must be in accordance with the signal made.

Article 20. Notwithstanding anything contained in any preceding Article, every ship, whether a sailing ship or a steam ship, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken ship.

Article 21. In narrow channels every steam ship shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such ship.

Article 22. Where by the above rules one of two ships is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course.

Article 23. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

No ship under any circumstances to neglect proper precautions.

Article 24. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any ship, or the owner, or master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 25. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland navigation.

Special lights for Squadrons and Convoys.

Article 26. Nothing in these rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for ships sailing under convoy.

Article 27. When a ship is in distress and requires assistance from other ships or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, that is to say:

In the day time—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distant signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball.

At night—

1. A gun fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the ship (as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, &c.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR.

The 27th day of November 1896.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by Section 418 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, Her Majesty is empowered from time to time, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade by Order in Council, to make regulations for preventing collisions at sea:

And whereas by Section 434 of the said Act Her Majesty is empowered from time to time by Order in Council to make rules as to signals of distress:

And whereas by an Order in Council dated the 11th day of August 1884, and expressed to be made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September 1884, the regulations contained in the Schedule thereto (being regulations for preventing collisions at sea and as to signals of distress) should be substituted for the regulations contained in the First Schedule to an Order in Council made under the same Act and on such joint recommendations as aforesaid and dated the 14th day of August 1879:

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that the Regulations for preventing collisions at sea contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, except the Article numbered 10 in such Regulations, should, on and after the 1st day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in Schedule I hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor, with the exception aforesaid and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is expedient that the Regulations or Rules as to signals of distress contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, should, on and after the said first day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the rules as to signals of distress contained in Schedule II hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas the provisions of section one of the Rules Publication Act, 1893, have been complied with:

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the power vested in Her by section 418 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to direct that, on and after the 1st day of July 1897, the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, except the Article numbered 10 in such Regulations, shall be annulled, and the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in Schedule I hereto annexed shall be substituted therefor (with the exception aforesaid) and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And Her Majesty is further pleased, by virtue of the power vested in Her by section 434 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to direct that, on and after the 1st day of July 1897, the Regulations or Rules as to signals of distress contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council dated the 11th day of August 1884, shall be annulled and the rules as to signals of distress contained in Schedule II hereto annexed shall be substituted therefor and come into operation as regards British ships and boats.

C. L. PEEL.

SCHEDULE I.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following rules every steam vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, &c.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam vessel when under way shall carry—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4 (a).—A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles, and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this Article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signal that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 31.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20 tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when underway, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a) (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them, they shall be provided with the following lights:—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry:

(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steamboats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or two other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars, or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a) and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Pilot vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed 15 minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

*Article 9.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 150 feet in length, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40 feet above the hull, one such light and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12.—Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

* This Article will deal with regulations affecting fishing boats, and will be the subject of another Order, which will be submitted to Her Majesty for approval at a later date.

Article 14.—A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound-signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given :

1. By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.
2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn, to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz. :—

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 2 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.

(e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in sub-divisions (a) and (c) of the Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing-vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal at intervals of not more than 1 minute.

Speed of Ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz :—

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is close hauled on the port tack shall k ...ie way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on differe... vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the... her.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the sam... sel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vess... leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the wa... vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or ...n, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so ... pass on the per side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting ...arly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, ...apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respe... pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Rules require a bell to be used, a drum may be ...board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board sea-going vesse...

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen any where but ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21.—Where by any of the Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam vessel, which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft, her beam, i.e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking, that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forwarded of or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of fair-way or mid channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines, or trawls. This Rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing-vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and construing these Rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one seconds duration

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in taking any course authorized or required by these Rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessel under any Circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29.—Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew, thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

SCHEDULE II.

Distress Signals.

Article 31.—When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz.:—

In the day time—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

A night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel, etc.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following:—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject in one year ...	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice ...	60

6. Any matriculated student who leaves the College before completing his University course, with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe, may receive certificates of attendance of lectures on payment of fees at the rate fixed in the foregoing rule. But in calculating the sum to be so paid, the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

7. Any person not being a matriculated student of the College who wishes to attend any course of lectures, or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and Professor of the subject on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in paragraph 5. If he has passed the Entrance examination of the University, he shall receive certificates of attendance at lectures. If he has not passed the Entrance examination, he shall receive no class certificates.

8. At the end of their first year, students will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Chemistry, and Botany. Those who gain not less than 20 per cent. in two subjects, and not less than 15 per cent. in a third, will be eligible for promotion to the second-year class. Those who fail to gain the aforesaid percentage of marks will not be eligible for promotion, but will go through the first-year class again.

9. Students of the second year will be required to pass a College test examination in Anatomy, Physiology, and Materia Medica. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. in two subjects and 15 per cent. in a third will be entitled to go up in the following March or April for the Preliminary Scientific Examination of the Calcutta University, the subjects of which are Chemistry and Botany. Those who (after passing the College test) fail at the University examination will be entitled, equally with those who pass it, to join the third-year class, at the end of which the former will have to present themselves, as at present, for the combined Preliminary Scientific and 1st L.M.S (or 1st M.B.) examination.

10. Those students who fail at the College test examination of the second year will not be debarred from going up for the Preliminary Scientific examination, but will be encouraged to do so in order to get that stage over; but whether they pass or fail at the University examination, they will be relegated for a further year to the second-year class, provided that those who pass the University examination will not be required to attend the courses in those subjects in which they have passed.

11. Students of the third year will present themselves for the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination of the Calcutta University. Those who fail at this examination will be relegated for a further year to the third-year class.

12. Students of the first or second-year class who fail a second time, at the same stage, to gain promotion to the next higher class, will be removed from the College and will not be entitled to re-admission. Third-year students who fail a second time will be liable to removal from the College; but if they are specially recommended by the Principal, they may again be relegated to the third-year class, on payment of the fees laid down in Rule 16, and re-admitted to the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination, and this concession may be allowed for any number of years at the discretion of the Principal.

13. Students of the fourth-year class will be required to pass a College test examination in Surgery, Medicine, Midwifery, and Medical Jurisprudence. Those who fail will be relegated to the fourth-year class for a further year. The examination in Surgery and Medicine will be both theoretical and clinical; but those students who can obtain from the Visiting Surgeon or Physician, to whose wards they have been attached, a certificate that they have really profited by their instruction in either subject, will be excused the clinical examination in that subject.

14. Students who fail at the 2nd L.M.S or 2nd M.B. examination will have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they have failed, in accordance with the regulations of the University.

15. The Principal will determine the maximum number that may be admitted to the first-year class. Students who have failed at the test examination of the first-year will have a prior claim to re-admission over new students.

16. Students re-admitted to a class after failure at the test examination will be required to pay half the regular fee for the session (Rs. 35), but extra fees as for dissection (Rs. 6) in full. The half fee must be paid at the commencement of the session in June. Those, however, who, after failing either at the Preliminary Scientific Examination or at the final examination, have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they failed, shall be required to pay for such lectures a fee of Rs. 20 for one subject, Rs. 30 for two, and Rs. 35 for three. Exceptions to this latter rule may be made in special cases by the Director of Public Instruction on the recommendation of the Principal.

In the event of any scholarship being forfeited under this condition, it may be awarded for one year to any student of the fifth year who has fulfilled the conditions and is not the holder of any scholarship. (3) The minimum chargeable on any consignment railed to the dock for shipment from any C. P. T. Railway station is Re. 1-4.

(4) This minimum will not apply to consignments received at the New jetty export shed for shipment at the docks.

(5) Applications (consignment notes) for wagons for export cargo will be accepted by the Superintendent, C. P. T. Railway, during office hours only (i.e., from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M.)

5. Export cargo tendered at the jetties for shipment in the dock will be received in the new export sheds in the Strand Road. The sheds are divided into compartments, each of which bears a number corresponding to that of the dock shed for which the cargo is intended; and a receipt will be granted as if the cargo were received in the dock shed. This receipt will have the same force as the receipt now granted at the jetties for cargo received for jetty shipment. The risks of transit between the new export sheds at the jetties and the dock sheds will be borne by the Port Commissioners.

The liability of the Port Commissioners in respect of export cargo lying in the dock sheds will be the same as their present liability for export cargo lying in the jetty sheds.

6. Arrangements for berthing, discharge and loading will continue to be made as heretofore by the Jetty Superintendent; but the Deputy Superintendent in direct charge of the dock will control all movements of vessels and all details of working within the dock, and he has full power to meet, as far as possible, the wishes of shippers and the wants of vessels.

7. Manjees bringing boats to the dock can have the time of arrival off the dock head enfaced on their boat notes, on presenting them at the dock master's office on the dock head.

8. Arrangements to facilitate deliveries of import cargo at the jetties will also be introduced on and from the 1st July 1897. Printed instructions for the guidance of consignees' sirears can be obtained on application.

By order of the Commissioners,

G. S. E. NICOLL, Offg. Secretary.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge is made); packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of I.; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); and the Index. The Index is a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

INDIA, SOUTH—INDIAN OCEAN.

Caution—Reported icebergs.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners No. 7, dated 15th January 1897, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 201 of 1897) that icebergs are still being reported in unusual numbers in comparatively low latitudes in the Southern Indian ocean between the meridians of 40° E. and 84° E., thus:—

(1) On 10th January 1897 the Dutch barque Concordia passed icebergs between lats 42° S. and 43° S., and longs. 46° E. and 48° E.

(2) The steam-vessel Kaikoura, from 10th to 16th January 1897, between lats. 45° S. to 48° S., longs. 42° E. to 80° E., passed many icebergs, especially in about lat. 48° S., longs. 59° E. to 65° E.

(3) The steam-vessel Port Chalmers, from 13th to about 18th January 1897, between lats. 44° S. and 46° S., and longs. 45° E. and 75° E., passed many bergs, much broken up in appearance.

(4) The steam-vessel Hubbuck, from 17th to 22nd January 1897, between lats. 45° S. to 47° S., longs. 40° E. to 74° E., passed icebergs, one in the last-mentioned longitude about 5 miles long.

(5) The steam-vessel Gulf of Lions, from 12th to 18th January 1897, between lats. 44° S. to 47 S., longs. 41° E. to 80° E., passed many icebergs, some said to be 400 feet in height.

(6) The steam-vessel Cornwall, on 28th January 1897, passed icebergs in lat. 41° S., longs. 52° to 53° E.

(7) The steam-vessel Nairnshire, from 8th to about 18th February 1897, between lats. 43° S. and 47° S., longs. 45° E. to 84° E., passed many icebergs; and during a fog on the 8th February was in collision with a low berg.

As it is not likely that ice in such unusual quantities will quickly disappear, the Seaman is cautioned that the route recommended in the Admiralty book of Ocean Passages, 1896, pages 138, 139, should be followed; and particular attention is directed to the reason on page 139 for not recommending a higher parallel than 49° S.

OILSEED CROPS IN BENGAL.

THE following is published for general information.

REV. DEPT., The 26th May 1897.

M. FINUCANE, Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Oilseed Crops of Bengal, 1896-97.

N.B.—Returns have been received from all districts except Shahabad, for which estimates of area and outturn have been reproduced from the preliminary forecast issued on the 22nd February 1897.

Explanatory.—This report gives estimates of the area and outturn of all oilseed crops grown in these Provinces. The chief of these are (1) rapeseed and mustard, (2) linseed, (3) til or gingelly, and (4) other oilseeds, e.g., castor oil and sirguza (niger oilseed), &c. Both varieties of til, viz., (a) the bhadoi variety, which is sown during the rains and reaped early in the cold weather, and (b) the rabi variety, which is sown in the cold weather and reaped shortly before the setting in of the rains, are included in the report.

2. Character of the season.—The character of the early part of the season was reviewed in the preliminary note on the oilseed crops issued on the 22nd February 1897. It may be thus summarized:—The monsoon rains of 1896 were deficient, and also ceased early, and drought followed, which lasted up to the third week of November. In December, there was no rain in Lower Bengal and Orissa; and only light rain fell in North Bengal, Bihar and Chota Nagpur during the last week of December. In January, also, rain was very light throughout the Province. The estimates of area and outturn returned by District Officers for the preliminary forecast, showed the condition of the crop up to January. Fairly frequent showers fell during the first three weeks of February in Orissa, South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur; and general light rain fell in Bihar and North Bengal during the second week of February. In March, the rainfall was above the normal in all districts of these Provinces. The excess in Orissa amounted to 2·62 inches, in North Bengal to 1·33 inches, in Chota Nagpur and Bihar to 1 inch, and in Lower Bengal to about ½ inch. The most important showers were received between the 22nd and 24th, when general and heavy rain fell over the Province. In April, general but light showers were received throughout the month.

3. Area cultivated.—From the returns appended to this note, it will be seen that the total area cultivated with oilseeds this year is estimated at 3,633,200 acres against 4,203,300 acres estimated to have been sown in 1895-96. This gives a decrease of 570,100 acres, or 13·56 per cent. on the area sown last year. The decrease is due to want of moisture in the soil at the time of sowing. The figures given above do not quite agree with those shown in the forecast issued in February. Darjeeling, for which no returns were received for the first forecast, is included in the present report; and revised estimates have now been received from Burdwan, Nadia, Khulna, Mymensingh, Patna and Sonthal Parganas, which account for the slight difference.

4. Character of the crop.—Out of the 45 districts of these Provinces (inclusive of Shahabad, for which no final return has been received, but for which estimates of area and outturn have been reproduced from the preliminary forecast), only one district, viz., Dinajpur, estimates the outturn of the different kinds of oilseed crops, taken together, as 16 annas. Four districts, viz., Darbhanga, Purnea, Bogra and Gaya, return crops varying from 14 to less than 16 annas; seven districts, viz., Jalpaiguri, Rangpur, Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Monghyr, Bhagalpur and Malda, return crops varying from 12 to less than 14 annas. Thirteen districts, viz., Rajshahi, Darjeeling, Pabna, Dacca, Mymensingh, Backergunge, Tippera, Patna, Shahabad, Saran, Cuttack, Hazaribagh, Singhbhum, show crops varying from 8 annas to less than 12 annas, and the remaining 20 districts, viz., all the districts of the Burdwan and Presidency Divisions, Faridpur, Noakhali, Chittagong, Sonthal Parganas, Balasore, Angul and Khondmahals, Puri, Lohardaga, Palamau and Manbhum, return crops less than 8 annas. Manbhum shows only a 2½-anna crop, Chittagong a 3-anna crop, and Birbhum a 3½-anna crop. Sixteen districts return crops equal in outturn to those shown in the first forecast, 16 other districts report better crops, and 12 districts report worse crops. In the preliminary forecast, the prospects of the oilseed crops up to the latter part of January were estimated at 10 annas. The rains of February and March benefited the crop, and the outturn may be estimated at 11 annas. The oilseed crop of 1895-96 was estimated at 10½ annas over a larger area cultivated.

5. Gross outturn.—Assuming, as in previous reports, 6 maunds per acre to be the average yield of linseed, rapeseed, and mustard, and 4½ maunds per acre to be the average yield of til and other oilseeds, the gross outturn of all kinds of oilseed crops of these Provinces during the year under report amounts to 502,700 tons, against 558,700 tons estimated for the previous year.

BURDWAN (concld).	Midnapore ...	Linseed ... ... and	Acres. 24,300	Acres. 14,800	Acres. 11,700	Annas. 9	Annas. 6	The area brought under cultivation has been less than the normal area, and the area, of last year in consequence of the total failure of rain at the sowing time. The outturn estimated in the first forecast has slightly improved owing to subsequent rain.

24-Parganas		Linseed ... ... and	1,500	1,300	400	7	4½	The unusual decrease in the area sown this year is due to scanty rainfall at the sowing season. The same cause also accounts for the decrease in the estimated outturn of the crops.
		Rapeseed mustard.	600	400	400	8	5½
		Til	700	600	600	12	9
		Other oilseeds ...	4,000	3,900	500	9	5

DISTRICT.	Nadiá ...	Linseed ... ... and	87,500	46,000	39,600	8½	4½	The increase of area shown under column 6 of the present return over that shown in the preliminary forecast is owing to the fact that some bhúl lands which were cultivated this year with crops in the Sadar subdivision were omitted from the previous forecast. The slight difference in the outturn calls for no explanation.
		Rapeseed mustard.	57,700	23,200	27,400	8½	3½

Presidency.	Murshidabad	Linseed ...	30,500	26,800	23,300	9	4	The decrease in the area sown this year, as well as in the outturn as compared with the normal area and that sown last year and with last year's outturn, is due to want of rain.
		Rapeseed and mustard.	23,700	18,900	14,900	16	5

	Khulna ...	Linseed ...	6,000	4,800	4,600	10	8	The decrease in area against "Rapeseed and mustard" and the increase in area against til is owing to the fact that District Superintendent of Police wrongly showed 5,000 acres, the area for til crop, against head "Rapeseed and mustard" in the first forecast for Sadar subdivision. The area of til sown this year at Bagirhat has been shown in this return as 1,600 acres. The decrease in area and outturn is owing to the want of rain.
		Rapeseed and mustard.	62,000	57,000	55,000	9½	6½

Dated Darjeeling, the 26th May 1897.

RESOLUTION.

The Report on the Administration of the Jail Department for the year 1896.

The Reports for the years 1894 and 1895, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel D. W. D. Comins held charge of the Department from the 1st to the 6th January, from the 12th April to the 22nd September, and from the 23rd December to the end of the year. Mr. A. D. Larymore, Superintendent of the Alipore Central Jail, officiated as Inspector-General for the intervening periods. The report, which was due on the 15th April, was received in the Secretariat on the 21st idem. The Vital Statements Nos. XIV and XV and Judicial Statement No. VI have been revised in accordance with the orders of the Government of India in the Home Department, contained in their Resolutions, No. $\frac{3\text{-Jails}}{120-130}$, dated the 9th March 1896, and No. $\frac{12\text{-Jails}}{500-510}$, dated the 31st August 1896. The term "Third class district jail" has been substituted for that of "Intermediate jail" previously used.

2. Judicial Statistics.—The number and classification of jails remained the same as in the previous year. The total number of prisoners of all classes confined in the jails and subsidiary jails of the Province during 1896 and the preceding ten years is shown by the following table:—

	1886.	1887.	1888.	1889.	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.	1894.	1895.	1896.

The total number of prisoners admitted increased from 85,957 to 92,701, and the daily average population of all classes from 16,929 to 17,499. Apart from special causes in particular districts, the scarcity which has prevailed for so many months apparently contributed to this increase. The number of convicts admitted direct rose from 33,246 to 35,843, the largest increase occurring in the Backergunge (517), Mymensingh (310), Champaran (284), and Gaya (239) districts.

The following table shows the districts with the highest ratio of convictions per mille of population:—

The lowest ratio is shown by Purnea (·25), Darbhanga (·23), and Dinajpur (·22).

3. Releases.—The following table compares the number of releases under the various heads during the past eight years:—

* Excluding 4 moribund prisoners who were released under Rule 504a of the Jail Code, and included as deaths.

The larger number of convicts passing through the jails accounts for the increase under the head "On expiry of sentence." The ratio per cent. of prisoners released on appeal (4·83) shows a satisfactory decrease as compared with the ratio for the previous year (5·72); but the figures for Bogra (11·49), Shahabad (12·44) and Burdwan (19·52) are very high, and in the case of the last named district demand the attention of the District Magistrate. The number of prisoners transported from Bengal jails rose from 85 in 1895 to 116, of whom two were women. Twenty-one death-sentences were carried out, as compared with 11 in 1895 and 20 in 1894.

4. Classification of convicts.—The number of Burman convicts in the Bengal jails on the 31st December 1896 was 287, against 332 at the close of the preceding year. One Burman prisoner in the Jessore Jail was sentenced to transportation for life for attempt to murder. The health and behaviour of these prisoners are reported to have been fairly good. Of the 35,843 convicts admitted direct into jail, 20,072, or 56 per cent., were Hindus, 14,166, or 39·53 per cent, Muhammadans, 383, or 1·08 per cent., Christians, and 116, or ·30 per cent., Buddhists. The number of juvenile offenders admitted rose from 344 to 402, of whom 350 were males and 52 females. The Reformatory Schools at Alipore and Hazaribagh remained nearly full throughout the year. A slight increase occurred in the proportion of female convicts admitted into the Jails, the ratio per cent. of total admissions being 3·7, against 3·3 in 1895. From the statistics of previous occupation it appears that the proportion of cultivators to other classes admitted into jail has fallen from 63·44 per cent. in 1891 to 58·99 per cent. in 1895 and 58·87 per cent. in the past year.

The following table classifies the convicts admitted direct into jail according to length of sentence, showing the percentage on the total number sentenced for each class respectively:—

The number of sentences of simple imprisonment and of rigorous imprisonment was 2,423 and 33,420 respectively, as compared with 2,287 and 30,959 in 1895; while the number of sentences of rigorous imprisonment with whipping rose from 182 to 277.

5. Reconvictions.—There were 4,436 reconvictions, or 13·10 per cent., against 3,843, or 11·55 per cent., in 1895. Of this number, 334 were identified as previously convicted by means of the Bertillon system of anthropometry, the number thus traced in 1895 being 207. Every assistance was given to the Police Department in the measurement of police-registered prisoners. The number of sentences for bad livelihood rose again from 2,129 to 2,245. The number of judicial whippings was 2,226, against 1,930 in 1895 and 2,341 in 1894. Of these, 74 per cent. were inflicted in cases of theft. The returns show the age of ten prisoners subjected to judicial flogging as having been between 45 and 50 years of age. The Magistrates may in some of these cases have considered the ages to be less than 45, but, in order to avoid any possible irregularity in future, the attention of all magisterial officers has recently been directed to section 393 (c) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, which prohibits the whipping of persons whose age appears to the Court to exceed 45 years.

6. Under-trial prisoners —The number of under-trial prisoners admitted increased from 31,211 to 34,340. Of this number and those remaining in jail from the close of the preceding year, 17,724, or 50·04 per cent., were convicted, and 13,794, or 38·92 per cent., released, against 47·28 per cent. convicted and 42·26 per cent. released in 1895. The mortality among under-trial prisoners again shows a satisfactory decrease, the number of deaths being 40 as compared with 45 in 1895 and 61 in 1894. Nine under-trial prisoners escaped during the year, of whom six were recaptured, against five escapes and three recaptures in 1895. The Lieutenant-Governor has again to notice with dissatisfaction the figures showing the average detention of under-trial prisoners, which exceed those for 1895, commented on in last year's Resolution. The detention in Sessions trials has increased from 39·70 days in 1892 to 46·01 days in 1896; while the returns for magisterial Courts (13·77 days) are the worst since figures have been separately given for these cases. In the

The attention of the District Officers is drawn to these figures. An improvement can be secured only by close supervision over the subordinate Magistrates, and such supervision should be constantly exercised. An explanation will be called for as to the extraordinary rise in the Darjeeling figures. Detention was shortest in Pabna (3·43 days), Jessore (8 02 days), and the Sonthal Parganas (8·82 days).

7. Civil and State prisoners.—On the last day of 1895, 61 civil prisoners remained in confinement, and 856 were admitted during 1896, making a total of 917. Of these nine were transferred and 849 released, leaving 59 confined at the end of the year. The Lushai Chief, Lalthuama, who was confined in the Chittagong Jail, was transferred, on the 18th March 1896, to Rangamati, and there released. Of the four State prisoners received from Madras who were under confinement during the year, one was transferred to Hazaribagh for the benefit of his health, two are reported to have enjoyed fair health, and the remaining one good health. They are all well cared for.

8. Jail buildings.—The total expenditure upon major and minor works and repairs in all jails during the year amounted to Rs. 1,54,464. The most important major works included in the list of projects for the year were the construction of additional wards in the Bhagalpur, Buxar and Hazaribagh Central Jails, and of a new jail at Halursingha, and certain additions and alterations to the main ward and hospital in the Presidency Jail. Extensive improvements in the Rangpur and Comilla jails were also undertaken, and an installation of electric light was completed in the Alipore Jail at a cost of Rs. 31,685. A sum of Rs. 18,995 was spent on minor works. Twenty cubicles were completed during the year in the Jessore Jail, twenty at Bhagalpur, and twenty-four at Hazaribagh; and a sum of nearly Rs. 15,000 was expended on installations of the Pasteur-Chamberland filter at Motihari, Chaibassa, Bankipore, Jalpaiguri, Rogra, Dinajpur, and Rangpur.

9. Guards and escapes.—The warder guard consisted of 233 head warders, 1,377 warders, including 47 warder recruits, and 112 apprentice warders. Owing to the scarcity and high prices there has been less difficulty, the Inspector General reports, in recruiting warders of good stamp, and young warders were more inclined to remain in the service. In the report for the year 1895, the Inspector-General adverted to the necessity for further improving the pay and prospects of the warder staff, and His Honour expressed his readiness to consider any representation that might be put forward. During the past year the dearness of food-grains brought this question into prominence, and some discontent was felt among the staff, until it was announced that Government intended to allow compensation for provisions with retrospective effect from July 1896. Dr. Comins now says that, in view of the orders for compensation, the question of increasing the pay of the warder staff has not been pressed. The system of drilling with the regular police force was discontinued during the year in accordance with the order of this Government, No. 106P.D., dated 13th June 1896.

During the year female warders were appointed for the remaining 6 of the 15 jails, for which they were sanctioned in the order of this Government, No. 2299P.—Jails, dated the 5th August 1895.

The number of criminal offences committed by warders was the same as in the previous year (37), while departmental offences rose from 1,701 to 1,794. A spirit of insubordination is said to have been evinced in the Midnapore Jail, which had to be suppressed by severe measures. At Ranchi a combination among the warders was detected, to which is attributed an outbreak of theft in the jail.

The number of escapes among convicts decreased from 23 in 1895 to 13, of which 6 were effected from inside the jails and 7 from outside. Nine of the prisoners were recaptured during the year, besides 3 others who had escaped in previous years.

10: Prison discipline.—The table below shows the nature of offences committed by convicts during the year, as compared with 1895:—

During the past four years offences dealt with by Criminal Courts have fallen from 61 to 38, offences relating to work from 24,799 to 16,340, and the total offences from 45,076 to 35,548. Under the orders contained in the Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{10\text{-Jails}}{610\text{-}622}$, dated the 9th November 1892, warnings are now included among the punishments shown in the report. Excluding offences dealt with by warning, the number of punishments awarded in the past year was 26,870, the lowest figure reached since 1890, and less than half the number returned in 1880, when there were 62,008 punishments.

The number of whippings inflicted was 223, as compared with 185 in 1895, and 277 in 1894. The highest proportion per cent. of whippings to total punishments is shown by the Darjeeling (4·16), Dumka (3·26), Rangpur (1·97), and Dinajpur (1·75) jails. In 11 jails corporal punishment was not inflicted. The number of prisoners punished with fetters fell from 7,928 in 1895 to 7,708.

11. Convict officers, mark remissions, &c.—A daily average of 952 male and 17 female convict officers were employed during the year, against 949 and 15, respectively, in 1895. The number of prisoners released under the mark system during the year was 5,090, as compared with 4,971 in 1895. The system applies to prisoners with sentences of one year or upwards, who are mostly confined in the Central Jails. Its effect on the conduct of the prisoners depends to a large extent, as Dr. Comins points out, on the intelligence and education of the convicts, and the term of their imprisonment which remains unexpired. Intelligent and partially educated convicts understand more readily the benefit they derive from earning marks. Long-term prisoners, again, when approaching the end of their sentence, become alive to the advantage of earning good conduct marks; but short-term prisoners and those who are only commencing a long period of confinement will not, it is said, behave better, nor be deterred from offences against jail discipline, through the fear of losing marks.

Relief was granted from the Claude Martin Fund to 1,530 prisoners on release.

12. Expenditure.—The gross expenditure on jails and subsidiary jails during the year, as compared with the expenditure in 1895, is shown below:—

Heading.	1895.	1896.
	Rs.	Rs.
Establishment	4,75,883	4,70,216
Dietary charges	4,56,975	5,00,470

Miscellaneous services and supplies	50,606	65,050
Travelling allowances	5,856	6,350
Contingencies	32,772	41,342
Charges on live-stock, tools and plant ...	19,234	22,301

Total ...	13,55,115	14,38,139
Public Works Department ...	1,23,086	1,54,464

The increase is chiefly under the head "Dietary charges," and is due to the larger population and the higher prices paid for food-grains. The rise in prices consequent on the failure of the crops was felt during a portion of the year. Excluding Public Works charges from consideration, the average cost per prisoner rose from Rs. 80-1-0 to Rs. 82-3-2.

13. Average prices of articles of diet.—The following table shows the average rates paid for the principal articles of diet in 1896, as compared with the corresponding rates during the five preceding years:—

A rise in price, as compared with 1895, thus occurred in every article. The rates of wheat, maize, dál, fish and meat were higher than they had been during any of the previous ten years.

The first three jails on the list have occupied the same position for the last three years. The large increase in cost at Hooghly is said to be due to a more expensive diet having been introduced in the latter part of 1895, and to the purchase of vegetables. At Dinajpur the rise is ascribed to a liberal diet combined with high prices. The judicious purchase of grain in bulk at the cheapest season, and the possession of a stock bought at cheap rates in 1895, have enabled some thirteen jails to show a decrease in the cost per prisoner. The most satisfactory result was attained in Mymensingh, where a reduction of more than Rs. 11 in average cost was effected by the foresight of the Superintendent and Jailer. The decrease at Jessore and Khulna is also very satisfactory. The total value of vegetables and other products obtained from jail gardens and dairies shows a decrease from Rs. 1,08,147 in 1895 to Rs. 1,02,562, although gardening outside the jails is being encouraged, and extra ground acquired for the purpose from time to time. The decrease is attributable to the short rainfall of the year, and the further abandonment of gardens within the jail walls, which were usually carried on in highly manured soil. The total cost of establishment fell from Rs. 4,12,369 to Rs. 4,07,442. Sanitation charges remained nearly the same.

15. The table below shows the average cost per prisoner in each jail, calculated on the expenditure under the three controllable heads of "Diet," "Hospital charges" and "Clothing," and the death-rate per mille of all admissions, together with the average cost per prisoner and the death-rate of all the jails collectively:—

No relation is shown by this table to exist between the death-rate and the average expenditure incurred on each prisoner.

16. Employment of prisoners and manufactures.—The daily average number of prisoners under sentence of labour on working days was 15,696 as compared with 15,352 in 1895. The average number sick, convalescent or infirm rose slightly, from 2,034 to 2,093, while the number on unremunerative labour fell from 1,013 to 919. The average number employed on manufactures rose from 5,744 to 6,001, and the percentage of convicts thus employed to the total number sentenced to labour from 37·41 to 38·86. The net profits from manufactures rose from Rs. 4,16,810 to Rs. 5,13,295; and the average profit per head sentenced to labour from Rs. 27-2 to Rs. 32 11. This increase is chiefly due to the original value of the existing stock of the Presidency Jail Press having been raised by Rs. 76,863 at the last stock taking. Statement XII (a) of the net cash earnings of convicts in the different jails need not be furnished in future reports.

The average number of prisoners employed by the Public Works Department and by District Boards and Municipalities fell from 174 to 147. Since the close of the year the orders regarding the extramural employment of prisoners have been revised, so as to bring them into more strict accord with the instructions contained in the Home Department Resolution, No. 10—605-18, dated the 7th May 1886.

In the Presidency Jail the convicts admitted to the press in bad and indifferent health increased by a daily average of 41, and, as a result, 22 hand-presses were idle, sufficient convicts in good health not being available to work them. The decrease in net profits is due to this cause. The results obtained in the Buxar Jail are again very satisfactory, and creditable to Mr. Emerson, the Superintendent, and Babu Nauranga Marwari, Officiating Deputy Superintendent in immediate charge of the factory, the profits being Rs. 91,334 against Rs. 83,817 in 1895. This is chiefly due to the expansion of the tent industry in consequence of extensive orders received from the Ordnance Departments. The total number of tents issued from the jail was 1,912, as compared with 1,359 in 1895 and 719 in 1894. The falling off in the profits at the Alipore Jail, from Rs. 83,479 to Rs. 78,718, is due to the fact that the jute mill was idle for some four months of the year, while a new engine imported from England was being erected. The blanket industry of the Bhagalpur Jail has been further extended during the year, and the profits from manufactures in the jail rose from Rs. 24,657 to Rs. 31,541. A new engine sanctioned during the year is shortly expected. The Midnapore, Rampur Boalia and Hazaribagh Jails show a decrease in profits. At Dacca the manufacture of chaukidari uniforms has been most successfully prosecuted owing to the efforts of the Superintendent, Mr. Beadon; and the profits earned have in consequence increased from Rs. 11,371 to Rs. 24,047. The ordinary profits of the district jails rose from Rs. 71,859 to Rs. 79,904, the average cash earnings being again largest in the Darjeeling Jail, where bread-making is the principal industry carried on.

18. Quinine and its distribution.—The filling and distribution of pice packets of quinine continued to be carried on at the Alipore Jail, 3,776,958 powders being prepared and packed during the year, as compared with 3,760,434 in 1895. The profit amounted to Rs. 6,128 against Rs. 8,208 in the previous year, the decrease being due to the provision of better envelopes and the grant of a higher sale commission on tins of 12 packets and over, where sales are heavy, in conformity with the instructions contained in paragraph 23 of this Government Resolution No. 106P.D., dated the 3rd June 1895. The total sales amounted to Rs. 51,595, as compared with Rs. 49,390 in 1895. Of this sum, Rs. 6,698 represents the value of packets supplied to officers in other Provinces. Under the orders of this Government contained in the Municipal Department letter, No. 874T.M., dated the 5th October 1896, the supply of quinine to other Provinces, which was temporarily stopped in the beginning of that year, has been re-introduced.

19. Subsidiary Jails.—The number of subsidiary jails and the arrangements for supervision and guard remained the same during the year. Explanations will be called for from those Superintendents who neglected to make the prescribed number of visits. The total expenditure on subsidiary jail buildings was Rs. 5,632, against Rs. 13,184 in 1895. There was no subsidiary jail under construction during the year. The number of convicts admitted direct, which had fallen from 17,385 in 1892 to 15,072 in 1895, rose again to 16,275. The average detention among convicts was 7·45 days, or almost the same as in the two preceding years. Eleven convicts, or 32·1 per mille of the average daily population, died. The total number of under-trial prisoners admitted during the year rose from 13,782 to 15,981, the highest figure reached during the past eighteen years. As in the district and central jails the average detention of under-trial prisoners has again risen (from 12·61 days to 13·07 days). The returns from Jahanabad in Hooghly (22·72), Sasaram (21·13), and Kurigaon (20·27) are specially unsatisfactory. Sixteen civil prisoners were admitted during the year, against 19 in 1895. Of 8 convicts who escaped from subsidiary jails 6 were recaptured during the year, and of 9 under-trial prisoners who escaped 6 were again caught. The total expenditure on subsidiary jails amounted to Rs. 1,20,200, against Rs. 1,21,549 in 1895, and the average cost per prisoner, exclusive of petty construction and public works charges, amounted to Rs. 117-0-1, as compared with Rs. 128-6-10 in 1895, and with Rs. 74-14-8 in the case of district and central jails.

20. Accommodation and food.—The central, district and intermediate jails of the Province are now capable of accommodating 17,865 convicts, 1,107 under-trial prisoners, and 347 civil prisoners, or a grand total of 19,319. In consequence of the increase in the average daily population, the ordinary sanctioned sleeping accommodation for convicts was insufficient in seven jails, and temporary accommodation had to be provided for the excess of prisoners. Similarly, the capacity of under-trial wards was exceeded at times in several jails, and temporary arrangements were made. The subjects of food-supply and dieting continued to receive careful attention during the year. Dr. Comins especially refers to the efforts made by Drs. Gregg, Whitwell, Nott, and Buchanan to promote the standard of health in the jails under their charge. In all jails the dieting of weakly prisoners has been a subject of special care. The Inspector-General cites the result obtained at Hazaribagh as an example of what can be effected. Out of the 1,000 prisoners confined in this jail, at least 600 are malaria-stricken or enfeebled men, who have been sent there for the benefit of their health. This unusual number of weakly and old prisoners have, however, been so well cared for, and the dietary arrangements and sanitation have been so well supervised by the Superintendent, Dr. Nott, that the weakly prisoner gangs contained in January 1897 only 213 prisoners, or 19 per cent. of the total population of the jail. The death-rate has not been above the average death-rate of the Province; and the cost of dieting and the hospital charges combined, notwithstanding the very high prices prevailing in the district and the increased population of the jail, was below that of many jails more favourably situated. Dr. Comins commends cultivation of potatoes, onions and English vegetables. "But in place of these," he writes, "it is too much the practice to grow sāgs (potherbs), gourds, and other worthless green stuff, which have no nutritive or antiscorbutic properties." He has circulated instructions as to the best methods of cultivating the China cabbage (Brassica chinensis) at different seasons of the year, as this vegetable possesses many qualities that make it suitable for cultivation in jail gardens.

21. Water-supply.—The sum of Rs. 12,500 was allotted during the year for the water-supply scheme for the Buxar Central Jail, which includes the raising of water from the main stream of the Ganges by a powerful pump travelling on rails to meet the varying height of the water level, introduction to settling and disinfection tanks by pipes, filtration, boiling, cooling and distribution by pipe to hydrants. The work is reported to be now well advanced, and it is expected to be completed during the current year. The arrangements for supplying the Monghyr Jail with water from the Ganges by pump and pipe were completed during the year. The following allotments were also made for the improvement of the water-supply at the places named:—Hazaribagh, Rs. 5,000; Alipore, Rs. 2,281; Bhagalpur, Rs. 2,150; Comilla, Rs 1,907; and Gaya, Rs. 600. The supply of Pasteur Chamberland filters is a noteworthy improvement in the jails of the province. Already seven jails have these filters in use, and provision has been made for their introduction into several others during the current year. Of the jails generally the Inspector-General remarks:—"The arrangements for the supply of pure water include settlement, disinfection by permanganate of potassium, filtration, boiling, cooling and distribution by pipes, and are being gradually completed as funds are available, but every jail has, in boiling, at least one means of effective sterilization." Dr. Comins acknowledges the services rendered by Surgeon-Major L. A. Waddell, Chemical Examiner to Government, Brigade-Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel D. D. Cunningham, and Dr. W. J. Simpson by their chemical and bacteriological examinations of water for the Department.

22. In accordance with the suggestion contained in paragraph 2 of the Home Department letter, No. $\frac{4\text{-Jails}}{249}$, dated the 27th June 1895, the following table showing the average weights of prisoners has been compiled from the figures furnished by the Medical Officers of the central jails:—

It will be seen from the statement that the average weights, according to each height limit, generally vary from those calculated by Dr. Buchanan at the Bhagalpur Central Jail, his figures being in most cases exceeded.

Sanitary improvements of various kinds have been carried out in most of the jails by the provision of better ventilation, by lowering or throwing back enclosure walls, by the substitution of a better class of latrine, by the acquisition of land outside the jails for the cultivation of vegetables, and by the substitution of lime-washing for the primitive method of cowdung washing. Encouragement has been given to Civil Hospital Assistants attached to the Jails by the distribution of Rs. 4,986 as gratuities among 54 of them whose work has shown the most satisfactory results.

23. Sickness and Mortality.—The following table shows the mortality among prisoners for each year, as well as for each decade, from 1844 to 1896:—

The reduction of mortality shown by the figures of 1895 has been maintained. Exclusive of deaths from cholera, the death-rate per mille of the average population (25·0) is the lowest hitherto recorded. Although the reports of the District Medical Officers show that the year 1896, especially during the first six months, was not so healthy as 1895, owing to the prevalence of fever, bowel-diseases, influenza and measles, the health of the prisoners in the jails was well preserved. The highest death-rate is shown by Daltonganj (168 per mille) and Darbhanga (106 per mille). In the Presidency (European), Khulna, Darjeeling and Noakhali jails, no death occurred.

The ratio of daily average sick per mille to daily average population among convicts decreased from 43·5 to 39·6. The jails which returned the highest average in this respect were Dinajpur (90·2), Purnea (86·5), Chapra (88·6), and Dacca (70·8). Dinajpur is always one of the most unhealthy districts in Bengal, and in 1896 appears to have been worse than usual. In Purnea the public health was also worse. The district in which the Chapra Jail is situated is said to have been very unhealthy, and the Civil Surgeon has for some years reported that malarial diseases are becoming more frequent and severe. At Dacca the high rate of daily average sick is due to influenza which caused a widespread condition of debility and depressed health. The public health of the Dacca district was unusually bad, and the death-rate $2\frac{1}{2}$ times that of the jail. The first three are jails which are kept depleted and from which prisoners are transferred for the benefit of their health on account of the known unhealthiness of the districts.

24. Principal diseases causing sickness and death.—Owing to the alterations in the form of Statement No. XV (showing admissions and deaths from the chief diseases), it has not been practicable to compare the statistics under each head for the years 1895 and 1896. The table below shows the principal diseases from which prisoners suffered during the past year:—

	Admissions.	Deaths.
Malarial fever	4,643	58
Dysentery	3,692	114
Other diseases of group A, sub-group I, including small-pox, mumps, simple continued fever, &c.	3,069	17
Diarrhœa	1,598	19
Abscess, boils and ulcers of all kinds	1,010	4
Other respiratory diseases, other than pneumonia, tubercle of lungs, &c.	576	9
Pneumonia	257	46
Anæmia and general debility	234	20
Tubercle of lungs, hæmoptysis and pneumonia, phthisis ...	165	53
Cholera	112	60

The prophylactic treatment of malarial diseases by daily doses of sulphate of cinchonidine, combined with the sulphate, or the tincture of the perchloride, of iron, was continued during 1896. In several cases the Medical Officers have reported that no result was observable; but the majority consider that the treatment has been beneficial, and that the number of cases of intermittent and remittent fever has diminished. Dr. Meadows (Cuttack) speaks of the treatment as extremely valuable, and ascribes to it the comparative immunity of the prisoners in his jail from dysentery. At the Bankura Jail a series of experiments was carried on by Dr. Green, who states that no markedly beneficial results are observable in the incidence of bowel-disease, but that the liability to malarial fever has much decreased.

Dysentery and diarrhœa accounted for 5,291 admissions to hospital and 134 deaths, as compared with 5,666 admissions and 155 deaths in 1895. Dysentery was both less frequent and less fatal during the year. The largest mortality from this disease occurred in the Midnapore and Alipore Central Jails, and the Chapra, Dinajpur, Comilla and Purnea District Jails.

Admissions and deaths from anæmia and debility decreased from 546 admissions and 30 deaths to 234 admissions with 20 deaths.

Deaths from cholera rose from 26 to 60, owing chiefly to two severe outbreaks that occurred in the Darbhanga and Bankipore Jails. At Darbhanga the disease was introduced through some convicts drinking water of a tank outside the jail, which, on examination, was found to be teeming with comma bacilli. Dr. Comins gives the following description of this outbreak and of the results of inoculation:—

"The outbreak lasted from 31st March to 15th April. On hearing of the outbreak, Professor Haffkine, who happened to be in Calcutta, started the same night for Darbhanga, and the next day inoculated 86 prisoners out of 160 who were in camp. No compulsion was used, nor was any reward offered to induce the prisoners to come forward; the prisoners were eager for the operation, and those passed over for want of sufficient virus considered themselves badly used. Professor Haffkine also inoculated 25 out of 53 prisoners remaining in the jail. Eleven cases of cholera occurred in camp after Professor Haffkine's visit, of which 8 occurred in prisoners who had not been inoculated. As the number of the inoculated and uninoculated was about the same, this is strong presumptive evidence in favour of inoculation, especially as all the uninoculated prisoners died, whereas only one died of the three inoculated prisoners. All the eight cases in camp among the uninoculated after Professor Haffkine's visit occurred within a few hours of the time of the inoculation of the other prisoners, whereas the earliest of the three cases among the inoculated occurred on the third day after inoculation and the last on the fourth day. The immunity of those inoculated is not more remarkable than the immediate increase in the number of attacks among those not inoculated. No such definite results were observed among those inoculated in the jail. Of 53 prisoners, 25 were inoculated. There were five attacks among these 53 prisoners after the time of inoculation, two being inoculated and three uninoculated. All these five prisoners died."

At Bankipore the disease first broke out on the 24th May, and lasted till the 5th June. Altogether there were 20 cases of cholera and 38 of choleraic diarrhœa, and 15 prisoners died. Most of the prisoners were moved into camp, and 113 were inoculated by Professor Haffkine; but the results in this case were not such as to show that increased immunity was given by the inoculation. The cause of this outbreak could not be traced, but cholera was very prevalent at the time in the town.

The total number of deaths among convicts in jails and subsidiary jails [including four moribund prisoners released under Rule 504 (a) of the Jail Code] was 461, against 418 in 1895 and 754 in 1894. Of the 450 convicts who died in jails, 125, or 277·8 per mille, were received into jail in good health, 165, or 366·7 per mille, in indifferent health, and 160, or 355·5 per mille, in bad health. The death-rate per mille of average strength was 29·0 among convicts, and 25·9 among under-trial prisoners.

Medical Committees were appointed during the year to enquire into the condition of the Chapra and Bogra Jails. The recommendations of the Committees have been generally approved by the Lieutenant-Governor, and are being given effect to.

Dr. Comins has written at some length on the transfer of sickly prisoners to the Hazaribagh and Bankura Jails and the satisfactory results obtained. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with pleasure the account given of the care and zeal with which Surgeon-Captain A. H. Nott has tended the large number of invalid prisoners transferred to his jail from other parts of the Province, and of the general efficiency of his management of the jail. At Bankura, too, the report shows that the system has worked effectively under the supervision of the Superintendent, Surgeon-Captain Green.

The high mortality at Daltonganj, a miniature jail with a population of 56, is reported to be due to the bad state of health of the prisoners admitted, who had been exposed to privation, and were suffering severely from malarial cachexia. Four of the 8 deaths occurred within 20 days of admission to jail. The high death-rate at Darbhanga and Bankipore was due to the outbreaks of cholera already mentioned; that at Dinajpur to the wretched condition of health in which a great number of prisoners were admitted to jail. This is one of the jails in which, on account of the bad state of health of the inhabitants, better food is given to the prisoners. Barasat is one of the most malarious subdivisions in Bengal, and prisoners confined there, as well as the warder-guard and residents, suffer much from fever.

Bhagalpur shows the very low death-rate of 7·5 per mille, which is, as Dr. Comins observes, a record for a jail holding over 1,200 prisoners. This result in partly attributable to the healthiness of the year in the Station; but the fact that in 1895 also the death-rate was so low as 9·2 per mille bears out the Inspector-General's view that the great care and attention which Dr. Buchanan gave to every detail of jail management and to individual prisoners showing any deviations from normal health has been perhaps the most potent cause in reducing sickness and mortality. His Honour also notices with satisfaction the improvement at Bogra, Muzaffarpur, Dacca, Monghyr, and Cuttack.

26. Inspections.—Mr. A. D. Larymore while officiating as Inspector-General visited 2 central, 21 district and 10 subsidiary jails. Dr. Comins inspected 6 central and 16 district jails, and also visited several of the largest prisons in the North-West Provinces, in accordance with the recommendations of the Jail Committee of 1889. The number of visits paid by all classes of official visitors was 2,207 against 2,323 in 1895. Sir Alexander Mackenzie is gratified to observe that the number of visits paid by non-official visitors has risen from 97 in 1895 to 361, and His Honour trusts that these gentlemen will continue to take an interest in the working of the jails. The Inspector-General remarks that their opinions are frequently valuable.

27. Officers of the Department.—Among the Medical Officers specially commended by the Inspector-General are—Dr. E. G. Russell at Dacca, Dr. J. Lewtas at Chittagong, Dr. R. Whitwell at Bankipore, Dr. Buchanan at Bhagalpur, Dr. Nott and his Civil Hospital Assistant, Babu Sarat Chandra Sen, at Hazaribagh, and Assistant Surgeon Durgananda Sen at Buxar. Among Superintendents, Mr. W. aC. Beadon at Dacca and Mr. M. S. Emerson at Buxar are specially mentioned. The Inspector-General also acknowledges the good work done by Mr. G. A. Davis as Deputy Superintendent of the Buxar Jail, and the marked ability with which Babu Nauranga Marwari has carried on the duties of Deputy Superintendent during the absence of Mr. Davis on deputation as Officiating Superintendent of Jail manufactures.

The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to Dr. Comins for his efficient administration of the Department, and to Mr. A. D. Larymore for his good work both as Superintendent of the Alipore Central Jail and as Deputy Inspector-General and Officiating Inspector-General.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Jails, for information and guidance.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution, with a copy of the Report, be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department.

Ordered also that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

From—E. GEAKE, Esq., Magistrate of Rangpur,
To—The Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division.

IN continuation of my report No. 2951J., dated the 22nd December last, I have the honour to report that the District Board have during the quarter put down ten Norton's tube wells in the Kurigram subdivision, including two put down as a temporary measure at Jatrapur, to protect against cholera, consequent on the defilement of the river water by the railway passengers. One tube well only has been put down during this quarter at Gaibanda in village Idrakpur, and five tube wells have been sunk at the Sadar as a temporary measure for Board's coolies on work.

2. During the quarter three new masonry wells of 4 feet diameter—one at Sadar and two in the Gaibandha subdivision (one in the Nilphamari and two in the Kurigram subdivision)—are under construction. Also a number of old wells and the existing tube wells have been repaired according to requirement.

3. As regards the collection of statistics of the existing chief sources of water-supply in the district, forms with detailed instructions have been printed in the vernacular and have been sent to the village panchayats. Each panchayat is to supply the statistics of his village in that printed form. When all these forms have been received, the work of compiling the registers will be taken in hand.

4. No progress appears to have been made in the Municipality, and the cause of the delay in preparing the registers is not explained.

Memo. by—U. C. BATAVYAL, Esq., Chairman of the District Board, Bogra.

COPY forwarded to the Magistrate of Bogra with reference to his letter No. 861J., dated 17th December 1896.

No. 484, dated Bogra, the 16th March 1897.

From—BABU N. K. CHAKRAVARTI, District Engineer, Bogra,
To—The Chairman of the District Board, Bogra.

WITH reference to your office memorandum No. 868 of the 12th instant on the subject of submission of quarterly reports of the progress made in collecting and placing on record the chief facts regarding water-supply, and steps that have been taken to improve the existing sources of water-supply during the present quarter, I have the honour to report as follows:—

A register has been opened in which every tank and well in each village containing 100 houses or more were being recorded; but as it is understood from Bengal Government Circular No. 234L.S.-G. that only sources of drinking water need be recorded in the register, arrangements are being made to revise the statements received and to correct the register accordingly.

The informations as much as have been collected regarding the sources of supply of water in the villages containing 100 houses or more in each thana are as under:—

Bogra thana.—Out of the 85 villages as recorded in the register, 23 are supplied from river or khal, 23 have wholesome tanks (private), and they are supplied from ordinary earthen wells. In certain villages there are a number of old tanks which have become useless, the water of them being unsuitable for drinking.

Khetlal.—Out of the three villages, two are supplied from sufficient number of wholesome tanks (private), and as regards the third village (Bilgara), no information has yet been received, as the Police Sub-Inspector of the thana states that there is no village in that thana named Bilgara.

Shariakandi.—Out of the 39 villages, 22 are supplied from river or bils, and the rest from earthenware wells. There is only one tank in this thana, which was, it is said, excavated from famine work of 1880. One masonry well has been constructed at Fulbari this year by the District Board at the cost of about Rs. 540.

Sherpur.—Out of the 20 villages, including Dhunat outpost, only one village, namely, Panchthopi, is badly in need of a good supply of drinking water, and the villagers have to fetch water from a bil at a distance of about a mile. The rest of the villages are supplied from rivers or khals, and which are considered adequate.

Shibganj.—Out of the six villages, four are supplied from Korotoya river, and the supplies are quite adequate. The best one named Sekendrabad depends on tanks and wells, but all the tanks in the village (25 in number) are, it is said, unwholesome.

Panchbibi.—Out of 16 villages recorded, three are supplied from river and the rest are supplied from tanks and wells.

Adamdighi.—Out of the 20 villages recorded, two are supplied from river, and as regards the rest, informations are being collected. Earthen wells can be found in every house.

As regards the steps being taken to improve the existing sources of water-supply, nothing has been done during the quarter under report, except some additions had been made to the masonry well at Doobchanchia, at a cost of Rs. 102, and the platforms of the masonry wells at Durgapur, Jainagar, and Baniadighi are being constructed.

Further, the District Board has sanctioned the construction of a tank in the Dhunat outpost, but the estimate for the same has not yet been prepared. And also the Magistrate in his diary of a tour to Durgahata suggested that a pucca indara may be constructed there by the Board for the benefit of the public, and an estimate for the same well be prepared shortly.

No. 192M., dated Bogra, the 31st March 1897.

From—Babu Beni Madhub Chaki, Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners of Bogra,

To—The Magistrate of Bogra.

In compliance with your memorandum No. 862J., dated the 17th December 1896, I have the honour to inform you that during the present quarter orders have been passed and arrangements made for the construction of a new masonry well in the northern division of the town, which it is hoped will be completed during the next quarter; orders have also been passed to cleanse the existing wells.

No. 2M., dated Sherpur, the 1st April 1897.

From—Babu Kali Kishore Munshi, Chairman, Sherpur Municipality,

To—The Magistrate of Bogra.

With reference to your office memorandum No. 862J. of the 17th December last, I have the honour to submit herewith an extract from the proceedings of a meeting of the Municipal Commissioners of Sherpur held on the 31st ultimo as required.

Extracts from the proceedings of a meeting of the Municipal Commissioners of Sherpur held on the 31st March 1897.

"As regards the water-supply of each ward of the Sherpur Municipality, the Municipal Commissioners are of opinion that the existing sources are adequate for the requirements of the town."

No. 509J., dated Dinajpur, the 20th April 1897.

From—N. Bonham-Carter, Esq., Magistrate of Dinajpur,

To—The Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division.

In compliance with Government Circular No. 58L.S.-G., dated 12th December 1896, forwarded with your No. 549M., dated 16th idem, calling for quarterly reports on the progress made in recording the facts relating to the water-supply in this district, I have the honour to report as follows.

2. The District Board report that during the quarter ending 31st March last materials for writing up the register of tanks, wells, &c., have been collected; but as the reports received relate to all villages, and not only to those of 100 houses and upwards, it is necessary to correct them before the register is written up. The Chairman has ordered that this be done by a reference to the census registers and the entries made without further delay.

3. There are 20 masonry wells in the possession of the District Board and two tube wells. Of the latter, one at Thakurgaon dispensary has not proved a success. Steps will be taken to have it repaired. The other tube well is under construction.

Of the 20 masonry wells, 3 are under construction. Most of the remaining 17 are reported by the District Engineer to be in need of repairs or of cleaning. Orders have been passed to submit an estimate for the work in each case.

4. The Chairman of the Dinajpur Municipality reports that there are in all 1,862 kutcha wells and 280 masonry wells within the Municipality. All these except 22 masonry wells belong to the private individuals residing in the town, and are largely used for drinking purposes, as the well water has been proved to be purer than either tank or river water.

There are also 82 tanks, all of which except three are reported to be quite unfit for drinking and other household purposes. The river Purnabhaba which runs to the west of the town also adds to the sources of water-supply. Those who live near it use its water for bathing and drinking purposes. At the commencement of last year the Municipality owned 20 masonry wells, all of which are said to have been thoroughly repaired during the year before last. Two more masonry wells were constructed by the Municipality during the last year. There are five tanks belonging to the Municipality, but the water is used only for bathing and road-watering purposes.

5. The existing source of water-supply in the town as mentioned above is considered to be sufficient for the requirements of the people. But, judging from what I have seen of the town, the tanks are by no means in a clear or sanitary condition, and I have addressed the Municipal Chairman on the subject.

6. The Chairman reports that the materials for writing up the register of tanks, &c., have been collected, and the writing up of the registers will be taken in hand shortly.

No. 142J., dated Boalia, the 23rd April 1897.

From—N. K. Bose, Esq., District Officer of Rajshahi,
To—The Commissioner of the Rajshahi Division.

I have the honour to submit the following report of the progress made in collecting and placing on record the chief facts regarding water-supply and the steps taken by the District Board and Municipalities to improve the existing sources of water-supply and to open new ones for the quarter ending 31st March 1897.

2. Preparation of Registers.—The registers prescribed by paragraph 2 of Circular Nos. 7T.M. and 8T.M. have been prepared by the Municipalities of Boalia and Nator. The District Board of Rajshahi has prepared the registers for all the thanas excepting two or three. The registers for thana Mahadebpur and part of thana Adamdighi, recently transferred to this district, have not been taken in hand. The District Officers of Dinajpur and Bogra will be asked to send the registers of those thanas.

WATER-SUPPLY.

3. (a) By the District Board.—The District Board has during the quarter improved the reserved tanks at Biraldaha, Nator and Saipara. The excavation of masonry wells at Baneswar, Thakur Manda, Kanpara, and Damcoora was taken in hand during the quarter. The Baneswar well has been completed, while the others are in fair progress. Rani Monmohini Debya, of Putia, has, with her usual liberality and public spirit, paid the entire cost of the excavation of the Baneswar well (amounting to Rs. 1,066), and has dedicated it to public use, in commemoration of the visit of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to this district in July last. Ten pottery wells have been dug in the Nator subdivision, and a tank in a village called Kandar is in course of excavation. Ten pottery wells are in course of construction in the Naogaon subdivision.

4. The District Board has during the quarter nearly completed the deepening of a drain called the Bairagir Dara, which, when completed, will allow free access of the flood-water of the Padma into the bils and tanks in the interior. Another drain has also been taken in hand. When these are completed, there will be an immense improvement in water-supply in localities through which the channels pass. These drains have been taken up at test relief works.

5. In addition to the above, the District Board has undertaken to re-excavate the following tanks belonging to private individuals with the money placed at its disposal by them:—

Locality.	Name of the proprietor.	Amount placed in the hands of the District Board.
		Rs.
Parila	Rani Monmohini Debya, of Putia ...	500
Sibpur	,, Hemanta Kumari Debi, of Putia ...	500
Mohonpur	,, Sarnomoyee, of Putia	300
Rahimanpur	Srimati Jnanda Sundari, of Sitlai ...	200

The tanks at Parila and Sibpur are nearly completed, and steps are being taken to reserve them for drinking purposes with the consent of the proprietors. A large dighi at Bagha is being re-excavated as a test relief work. Its proprietor had offered to bear a considerable portion of the cost, but he has died suddenly, leaving a minor son as his heir. It is apprehended that the District Board shall have to bear the entire cost.

6. (b) By the Boalia Municipality.—Notices under section 200 of the Municipal Act for re-excavating or filling up unwholesome tanks have been served on the owners of almost all filthy tanks in the townand in compliance with the said requisitions, the following tanks are being re-excavated:—

(a) Jnanda undari's tank in Miapara.
(b) Kali Nan Saha's tank in Khansamarchak.
(c) Dina Badhu Sanyal's tank in Malopara.
(d) Gadadhr Roy's tank in Beldarpara.
(e) KrishnaChandra Roy's tank in Boalia.

Besides these, four gatlemen have of their own accord re-excavated their tanks situated in mahallas Shekhpara, Foodkipara and Kadirganj. The owners of a big tank near Rajshahi have authorised the Municipality to re-excavate it, and the work will be soon taken in hand. A well is being sunk by the Municipality in mahalla Raninagar at the cost of private gentlemen.

7. The Municipal Commissioners are rendering pecuniary help to those persons whose tanks, when re-excavated, are likely to prove useful, but who cannot afford the whole cost of the work. The water of the Damos below the town not being fit for drinking purposes, water from the flowing stream (which is now over a mile from the town) is being brought by boats and stored up in three depots, from which it is being supplied to the public at a nominal cost. In order to make the water more easily obtainable, an iron tank filled with the Pudma water is being sent round the town in a cart. A bamboo bridge has been erected over the Damos to enable the town people to bathe in and draw water from the main channel.

8. (c) By the Natore Municipality.—There is nothing special to record. Two unwholesome tanks in wards Nos. 7 and 8 are being re-excavated.

9. During the quarter under report loans under the land Improvement Loans Act, amounting to Rs. 21,232, have been granted for the excavation and re-excavation of 124 tanks throughout the district.

The number of wells owned by the Municipality was seven, viz., four Ranigunge pipe wells and three masonry wells during the quarter. The platforms and copings to the said masonry wells were completed at a cost of Rs. 102 during the quarter. Construction of three more masonry wells was taken in hand during the latter part of the quarter, and the work has been finished in this month.

IN continuation of this office letter No. 1567J., dated the 26t December 1896, I have the honour to submit the following report on the progress of recording and improving the water-supplies of this district for the quarter ending 31st March 197.

2. Up to the end of the quarter the District Board have collated and recorded statistics regarding water-supply of 113 villages out of 658 shown in Register No. I. A 6-feet diameter masonry well in the village of Kumrul and three smalle such wells on roadsides were under construction in the Sirajganj subdivision during the qurter under report. There were no masonry wells in hand in the Sadar subdivision: 20 masonry wells of large and small diameter were cleaned and repaired. Rings were obtained fo 150 wells for both the subdivisions, and the digging of the wells was started at the close of the quarter. The re-excavation of a large tank at Munsidpur in Pabna subdivision was taken up as a famine relief work at the beginning of March.

3. By the Pabna Municipality two tanks near the kutchery compound have been re-excavated, the cost being met from the subscriptions raised for the reception of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. Four more private tanks have been re-excavated in the Municipality at the cost of their owners. Three ring wells have been sunk by the Municipality at its own cost.

4. The Chairman of the Sirajganj Municipality reports that arrangements have been made to sink in various parts of the town 33 masonry wells, of which many have been commenced. Under notice from the Commissioners the owners of a private tank have commenced to clean it out. The clearing out of a municipal tank is reported to be under contemplation, provided the funds of the Municipality allow the Commissioners to do so. The Chairman also reports that several private gentlemen are sinking wells in their own premises with bricks sold to them by the Municipal Commissioners at a reduced price. The public will have access to a few of these wells.

Imports.—The increase of 143,282 cwts. in the total imports into Calcutta was chiefly due to the receipt of 142,676 cwts. of rice and 29,101 cwts of paddy from Burma, against nil in the corresponding week of 1896. There were on the other hand decreases of 23,704 cwts. and 20,843 cwts under those articles respectively in the consignments from the Balasore ports.

Exports.—In the following statement the total quantity of each kind of food-grain exported by sea during the week ending 21st May 1897 is compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896:—

Foreign Ports.

The total exports of food-grains to Foreign ports aggregated 47,764 cwts. and were only half those of the third week of May 1896, owing chiefly to a decline of 23,102 cwts. in the exports of rice to Ceylon and of 14,568 cwts. in gram and pulse exported to the United Kingdom.

Indian Ports.

The decrease in the exports of all kinds of cereals to Indian ports aggregated 44,558 cwts., of which 15,305 cwts. occurred in the shipments of rice and 9,841 cwts. in those of gram and pulse to Bombay, and of 12,766 cwts. of the latter to the Madras ports.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—

Imports. The enormous increase in the imports into Chittagong was due to larger receipts of rice and paddy from Burma. The increase of 1,583 cwts. in the imports into Balasore was mainly due to a supply of 1,265 cwts. of "other" food-grains from Calcutta, against nil in the corresponding period in 1896.

Exports. The export trade of Chittagong declined by 9,733 cwts., owing chiefly to the absence of shipments of rice and paddy to Cochin; to Narayanganj, however, the consignments increased by 5,070 cwts. The exports from Cuttack were only half those of the last 9 days of April 1896, in consequence of the cessation of supplies of gram and pulse, and to a falling off in the despatches of rice to the Madras ports. Owing to there being no exports of rice to Colombo, the trade of Puri showed a decrease. The exports from Balasore decreased by 23,407 cwts. The principal fluctuations were a falling off of 13,680 cwts. under rice and 11,436 cwts. under paddy, against an increase of 1,709 cwts. under gram and pulse.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; t, thunder; < lightning, p, passing temporary showers.

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by Order in Council made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and dated the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, Her Majesty, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, was pleased to direct that on and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea contained in an Order in Council dated the ninth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and the additions by an Order in Council dated the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight, made thereto, should be annulled, and that there should be substituted therefor the new Regulations contained in the first schedule to the said first-named Order in Council, and that the same should from and after the first day of September, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, apply to ships of the countries mentioned in the said second schedule thereto, whether within British jurisdiction or not.

And whereas by the Orders in Council dated respectively the twenty-fourth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, the twenty-sixth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, the eighteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, the twenty-third day of August, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three, and the second day of February, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that the operation of the Article numbered 10 of the New Regulations contained in the first schedule of the said Order in Council of the fourteenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, should be suspended from time to time.

SCHEDULE REFERRED TO IN THIS ORDER.

Regulations for preventing Collisions at Sea.

Article 1.—In the following rules every steam ship which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing ship; and every steam ship which is under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a ship under steam.

Rules concerning Lights.

Article 2.—The lights mentioned in the following Articles numbered 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11, and no others, shall be carried in all weathers, from sunset to sunrise.

Article 3.—A seagoing steam ship when under way shall carry :—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the ship exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the ship, viz., from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least five miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(c) On the port side a red light, so constructed as to show an uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night, with a clear atmosphere, at a distance of at least two miles.

(d) The said green and red side lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

Article 4.—A steam ship, when towing another ship shall, in addition to her side lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 8 feet apart, so as to distinguish her from other steam ships. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position, as the white light which other steam ships are required to carry.

Article 5 (a).—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, which from any accident is not under command, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and, if a steam ship, in place of that light, three red lights in globular lanterns, each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in a vertical line one over the other not less than three feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere at a distance of at least two miles; and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than three feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three black balls or shapes, each two feet in diameter.

(b) A ship, whether a steam ship or sailing ship employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, shall at night carry in the same position as the white light which steam ships are required to carry, and if a steam ship, in place of that light, three lights in globular lanterns each not less than 10 inches in diameter, in vertical line over one another, not less than 6 feet apart; the highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character that the red lights shall be visible at the same distance as the white light. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than six feet apart, in front of but not lower than her foremast head, three shapes not less than two feet in diameter, of which the top and bottom shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The ships referred to in this Article, when not making any way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other ships as signals that the ship showing them is not under command, and cannot therefore get out of the way. The signals to be made by ships in distress and requiring assistance are contained in Article 27.

Article 6.—A sailing ship under way or being towed shall carry the same lights as are provided by Article 3 for a steam ship under way, with the exception of the white light, which she shall never carry.

Article 7.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels during bad weather, the green and red side lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept on deck, on their respective sides of the vessel, ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 8.—A ship, whether a steam ship or a sailing ship, when at anchor, shall carry, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light, in a globular lantern of not less than 8 inches in diameter, and so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least one mile.

Article 9.—A pilot vessel, when engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall not carry the light required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed fifteen minutes.

A pilot vessel, when not engaged on her station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other ships.

Article 10.—Open boats and fishing vessels of less than 20 tons net registered tonnage, when under way and when not having their nets, trawls, dredges, or lines in the water, shall not be obliged to carry the coloured side lights; but every such boat and vessel shall in lieu thereof have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on the one side, and a red glass on the other side, and on approaching to or being approached by another vessel such lantern shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

The following portion of this Article applies only to fishing vessels and boats when in the sea off the coast of Europe lying north of Cape Finisterre :—

(a) All fishing vessels and fishing boats of 20 tons net registered tonnage, or upward, when under way and when not required by the following regulations in this Article to carry and show the lights therein named shall carry and show the same lights as other vessels under way.

(b) All vessels when engaged in fishing with drift nets shall exibit two white lights from any part of the vessel where they can be best seen. Such lights shall be placed so that the vertical distance between them shall be not less than 6 feet and not more than 10 feet; and so that the horizontal distance between them measured in a line with the keel of the vessel shall be not less than 5 feet and not more than 10 feet. The lower of these two lights shall be the more forward, and both of them shall be of such a character, and contained in lanterns of such construction as to show all round the horizon, on a dark night with a clear atmosphere, for a distance of not less than three miles.

(d) If a vessel when fishing becomes stationary in consequence of her gear getting fast to a rock or other obstruction, she shall show the light and make the fog signal for a vessel at anchor.

(e) Fishing vessels and open boats may at any time use a flare-up in addition to the lights which they are by this Article required, to carry and show. All flare-up lights exhibited by a vessel when trawling dredging, or fishing with any kind of drag net shall be shown at the after part of the vessel, expecting that if the vessel is hanging by the stern to her trawl, dredge, or drag net, they shall be exhibited from the bow.

(g) In fog, mist, or falling snow, a drift net vessel attached to her nets and a vessel when trawling, dredging or fishing with any kind of drag net, and a vessel employed in line fishing with her lines out, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes make a blast with her fog horn and ring her bell alternately.

Article 11. A ship which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned ship a white light or a flare-up light.

Sound signals for fog, &c.

Article 12. A steam ship shall be provided with a steam whistle or other efficient steam sound signal, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstructions, and with an efficient fog horn to be sounded by a bellows or other mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing ship shall be provided with a similar fog horn and bell.

In fog, mist, or falling snow, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows; that is to say,—

(a) A steam ship under way shall make with her steam whistle, or other steam sound signal, at intervals of not more than two minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A sailing ship under way shall make with her fog horn, at intervals of not more than two minutes, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(c) A steam ship and a sailing ship, when not under way, shall at intervals of not more than two minutes ring the bell.

Speed of ships to be moderate in fog, &c.

Article 13. Every ship, whether a sailing ship or steam ship, shall, in a fog, mist, or falling snow, go at a moderate speed.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Article 14. When two sailing ships are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz.:—

(a) A ship which is running free shall keep out of the way of a ship which is close-hauled.

(c) When both are running free with the wind on different sides, the ship which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free with the wind on the same side, the ship which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the ship which is to leeward.

(e) A ship which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other ship.

Article 15. If two ships under steam are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the port side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where ships are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two ships which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Regulations require a bell to be used, a drum will be substituted on board Turkish vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are, when each of the two ships is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words, to cases in which, by day, each ship sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line with her own; and by night, to cases in which each ship is in such a position as to see both the side lights of the other.

It does not apply by day to cases in which a ship sees another ahead crossing her own course or by night to cases where the red light of one ship is opposed to the red light of the other or where the green light of one ship is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen anywhere but ahead.

Article 16. If two ships under steam are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the ship which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 17. If two ships, one of which is a sailing ship and the other a steam ship, are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam ship shall keep out of the way of the sailing ship.

Article 18. Every steam ship, when approaching another ship, so as to involve risk of collision, shall slacken her speed or stop and reverse, if necessary.

Article 19. In taking any course authorised or required by these regulations, a steam ship under way may indicate that course to any other ship which she has in sight by the following signals on her steam whistle, viz.—

One short blast to mean "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean "I am going full speed astern."

The use of these signals is optional, but if they are used the course of the ship must be in accordance with the signal made.

Article 20. Notwithstanding anything contained in any preceding Article, every ship, whether a sailing ship or a steam ship, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken ship.

Article 21. In narrow channels every steam ship shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of the fairway or mid-channel which lies on the starboard side of such ship.

Article 22. Where by the above rules one of two ships is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course.

Article 23. In obeying and construing these rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

No ship under any circumstances to neglect proper precautions.

Article 24. Nothing in these rules shall exonerate any ship, or the owner, or master, or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

AT THE COURT AT WINDSOR.

The 27th day of November 1896.

PRESENT:

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by Section 418 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, Her Majesty is empowered from time to time, on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade by Order in Council, to make regulations for preventing collisions at sea:

And whereas by Section 434 of the said Act Her Majesty is empowered from time to time by Order in Council to make rules as to signals of distress:

And whereas by an Order in Council dated the 11th day of August 1884, and expressed to be made in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, Her Majesty was pleased to direct that, on and after the first day of September 1884, the regulations contained in the Schedule thereto (being regulations for preventing collisions at sea and as to signals of distress) should be substituted for the regulations contained in the First Schedule to an Order in Council made under the same Act and on such joint recommendations as aforesaid and dated the 14th day of August 1879:

And whereas the Admiralty and the Board of Trade have jointly recommended to Her Majesty that the Regulations for preventing collisions at sea contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, except the Article numbered 10 in such Regulations, should, on and after the 1st day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in Schedule I hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor, with the exception aforesaid and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas it has been made to appear to Her Majesty that it is expedient that the Regulations or Rules as to signals of distress contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, should, on and after the said first day of July 1897, be annulled, and that the rules as to signals of distress contained in Schedule II hereto annexed should, on and after the last-mentioned date, be substituted therefor and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

And whereas the provisions of section one of the Rules Publication Act, 1893, have been complied with:

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by virtue of the power vested in Her by section 418 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and on the joint recommendation of the Admiralty and the Board of Trade, and by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, is pleased to direct that, on and after the 1st day of July 1897, the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in the Schedule to the said Order in Council, dated the 11th day of August 1884, except the Article numbered 10 in such Regulations, shall be annulled, and the Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea contained in Schedule I hereto annexed shall be substituted therefor (with the exception aforesaid) and come into operation as regards British ships and boats:

C. L. PEEL.

SCHEDULE I.

Preliminary.

These Rules shall be followed by all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith, navigable by sea-going vessels.

In the following rules every steam vessel which is under sail and not under steam is to be considered a sailing vessel, and every vessel under steam, whether under sail or not, is to be considered a steam vessel.

The word "steam vessel" shall include any vessel propelled by machinery.

A vessel is "under way" within the meaning of these Rules, when she is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore or aground.

Rules concerning Lights, &c.

The word "visible" in these Rules, when applied to lights, shall mean visible on a dark night with clear atmosphere.

Article 1.—The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with in all weathers from sunset to sunrise and during such time no other lights which may be mistaken for the prescribed lights shall be exhibited.

Article 2.—A steam vessel when under way shall carry—

(a) On or in front of the foremast, or if a vessel without a foremast, then in the fore part of the vessel, at a height above the hull of not less than 20 feet, and if the breadth of the vessel exceeds 20 feet, then at a height above the hull not less than such breadth, so, however, that the light need not be carried at a greater height above the hull than 40 feet, a bright white light, so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 20 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light 10 points on each side of the vessel, viz., from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on either side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 5 miles.

(b) On the starboard side a green light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the starboard side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(c) On the port side a red light so constructed as to show an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 10 points of the compass, so fixed as to throw the light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on the port side, and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(d) The said green and red side-lights shall be fitted with inboard screens projecting at least 3 feet forward from the light, so as to prevent these lights from being seen across the bow.

(e) A steam vessel when under way may carry an additional white light similar in construction to the light mentioned in subdivision (a). These two lights shall be so placed in line with the keel that one shall be at least 15 feet higher than the other, and in such a position with reference to each other that the lower light shall be forward of the upper one. The vertical distance between these lights shall be less than the horizontal distance.

Article 3.—A steam vessel when towing another vessel shall, in addition to her side-lights, carry two bright white lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and when towing more than one vessel shall carry an additional bright white light 6 feet above or below such lights, if the length of the tow, measuring from the stern of the towing vessel to the stern of the last vessel towed exceeds 600 feet. Each of these lights shall be of the same construction and character, and shall be carried in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), except the additional light, which may be carried at a height of not less than 14 feet above the hull.

Such steam vessel may carry a small white light abaft the funnel or aftermast for the vessel towed to steer by, but such light shall not be visible forward of the beam.

Article 4 (a).—A vessel which from any accident is not under command shall carry at the same height as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), where they can best be seen, and, if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light two red lights, in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, and of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 2 miles, and shall by day carry in a vertical line one over the other not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, two black balls or shapes each 2 feet in diameter.

(b) A vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable shall carry in the same position as the white light mentioned in Article 2 (a), and if a steam vessel, in lieu of that light, three lights in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart. The highest and lowest of these lights shall be red, and the middle light shall be white, and they shall be of such a character as to be visible all round the horizon, at a distance of at least 2 miles. By day she shall carry in a vertical line one over the other, not less than 6 feet apart, where they can best be seen, three shapes not less than 2 feet in diameter, of which the highest and lowest shall be globular in shape and red in colour, and the middle one diamond in shape and white.

(c) The vessels referred to in this Article, when not making way through the water, shall not carry the side lights, but when making way shall carry them.

(d) The lights and shapes required to be shown by this Article are to be taken by other vessels as signal that the vessel showing them is not under command and cannot therefore get out of the way.

These signals are not signals of vessels in distress and requiring assistance. Such signals are contained in Article 31.

Article 5.—A sailing vessel under way, and any vessel being towed, shall carry the same lights as are prescribed by Article 2 for a steam vessel under way, with the exception of the white lights mentioned therein which they shall never carry.

Article 6.—Whenever, as in the case of small vessels under way during bad weather, the green and red side-lights cannot be fixed, these lights shall be kept at hand lighted and ready for use; and shall, on the approach of or to other vessels, be exhibited on their respective sides in sufficient time to prevent collision, in such manner as to make them most visible, and so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side, nor, if practicable, more than 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides.

To make the use of these portable lights more certain and easy, the lanterns containing them shall each be painted outside with the colour of the light they respectively contain, and shall be provided with proper screens.

Article 7.—Steam vessels of less than 40, and vessels under oars or sails of less than 20 tons gross tonnage, respectively, and rowing boats, when underway, shall not be obliged to carry the lights mentioned in Article 2 (a) (b) and (c), but if they do not carry them, they shall be provided with the following lights:—

1. Steam vessels of less than 40 tons shall carry:

(a) In the fore part of the vessel, or on or in front of the funnel where it can best be seen, and at a height above the gunwale of not less than 9 feet, a bright white light constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (a), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 2 miles.

(b) Green and red side-lights constructed and fixed as prescribed in Article 2 (b) and (c), and of such a character as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile, or a combined lantern showing a green light and a red light from right ahead to 2 points abaft the beam on their respective sides. Such lantern shall be carried not less than 3 feet below the white light.

2. Small steamboats, such as are carried by sea-going vessels, may carry the white light at a less height than 9 feet above the gunwale, but it shall be carried above the combined lantern, mentioned in subdivision 1 (b).

3. Vessels under oars or sails, of less than 20 tons, shall have ready at hand a lantern with a green glass on one side and a red glass on the other, which, on the approach of or two other vessels, shall be exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision, so that the green light shall not be seen on the port side nor the red light on the starboard side.

4. Rowing boats, whether under oars, or sail, shall have ready at hand a lantern showing a white light, which shall be temporarily exhibited in sufficient time to prevent collision.

The vessels referred to in this Article shall not be obliged to carry the lights prescribed by Article 4 (a) and Article 11, last paragraph.

Article 8.—Pilot vessels, when engaged on their station on pilotage duty shall not show the lights required for other vessels, but shall carry a white light at the masthead, visible all round the horizon, and shall also exhibit a flare-up light or flare-up lights at short intervals, which shall never exceed 15 minutes.

On the near approach of or to other vessels they shall have their side-lights lighted, ready for use, and shall flash or show them at short intervals, to indicate the direction in which they are heading, but the green light shall not be shown on the port side, nor the red light on the starboard side.

A pilot-vessel of such a class as to be obliged to go alongside of a vessel to put a pilot on board, may show the white light instead of carrying it at the masthead, and may, instead of the coloured lights above mentioned, have at hand ready for use a lantern with a green glass on the one side and a red glass on the other, to be used as prescribed above.

Pilot vessels, when not engaged on their station on pilotage duty, shall carry lights similar to those of other vessels of their tonnage.

*Article 9.

Article 10.—A vessel which is being overtaken by another shall show from her stern to such last-mentioned vessel a white light or a flare-up light.

The white light required to be shown by this Article may be fixed and carried in a lantern, but in such case the lantern shall be so constructed, fitted, and screened that it shall throw an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 12 points of the compass, viz., for 6 points from right aft on each side of the vessel, so as to be visible at a distance of at least 1 mile. Such light shall be carried as nearly as practicable on the same level as the side-lights.

Article 11.—A vessel under 150 feet in lenght, when at anchor, shall carry forward, where it can best be seen, but at a height not exceeding 20 feet above the hull, a white light in a lantern so constructed as to show a clear uniform and unbroken light visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile.

A vessel of 150 feet or upwards in length, when at anchor, shall carry in the forward part of the vessel, at a height of not less than 20, and not exceeding 40 feet above the hull, one such light and at or near the stern of the vessel, and at such a height that it shall be not less than 15 feet lower than the forward light, another such light.

The length of a vessel shall be deemed to be the length appearing in her certificate of registry.

A vessel aground in or near a fairway shall carry the above light or lights and the two red lights prescribed by Article 4 (a).

Article 12.—Every vessel may, if necessary in order to attract attention, in addition to the lights which she is by these Rules required to carry, show a flare-up light or use any detonating signal that cannot be mistaken for a distress signal.

Article 13.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any nation with respect to additional station and signal lights for two or more ships of war or for vessels sailing under convoy, or with the exhibition of recognition signals adopted by shipowners, which have been authorized by their respective Governments and duly registered and published.

* This Article will deal with regulations affecting fishing boats, and will be the subject of another Order, which will be submitted to Her Majesty for approval at a later date.

Article 14.—A steam vessel proceeding under sail only, but having her funnel up, shall carry in daytime, forward, where it can best be seen, one black ball or shape 2 feet in diameter.

Sound-Signals for Fog, etc.

Article 15.—All signals prescribed by this Article for vessels under way shall be given :

1. By "steam vessels" on the whistle or siren.
2. By "sailing vessels and vessels towed" on the fog-horn.

The words "prolonged blast" used in this Article, shall mean a blast of from 4 to 6 seconds' duration.

A steam vessel shall be provided with an efficient whistle or siren, sounded by steam or some substitute for steam, so placed that the sound may not be intercepted by any obstruction, and with an efficient fog-horn,to be sounded by mechanical means, and also with an efficient bell.* A sailing vessel of 20 tons gross tonnage or upwards shall be provided with a similar fog-horn and bell.

In fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain storms, whether by day or night, the signals described in this Article shall be used as follows, viz. :—

(a) A steam vessel having way upon her, shall sound, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, a prolonged blast.

(b) A steam vessel under way, but stopped and having no way upon her, shall sound at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, 2 prolonged blasts, with an interval of about 1 second between them.

(c) A sailing vessel under way shall sound, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, when on the starboard tack one blast, when on the port tack two blasts in succession, and when with the wind abaft the beam three blasts in succession.

(d) A vessel, when at anchor, shall, at intervals of not more than 1 minute, ring the bell rapidly for about 5 seconds.

(e) A vessel, when towing a vessel employed in laying or in picking up a telegraph cable, and a vessel under way, which is unable to get out of the way of an approaching vessel through being not under command, or unable to manœuvre as required by these Rules, shall, instead of the signals prescribed in sub-divisions (a) and (c) of the Article, at intervals of not more than 2 minutes, sound three blasts in succession, viz., one prolonged blast followed by two short blasts. A vessel towed may give this signal and she shall not give any other.

Sailing-vessels and boats of less than 20 tons gross tonnage shall not be obliged to give the above-mentioned signals, but if they do not, they shall make some other efficient sound-signal at intervals of not more than 1 minute.

Speed of Ships to be Moderate in Fog, etc.

Article 16.—Every vessel shall, in a fog, mist, falling snow, or heavy rain-storms, go at a moderate speed having careful regard to the existing circumstances and conditions.

A steam vessel hearing, apparently forward of her beam, the fog-signal of a vessel the position of which is not ascertained, shall, so far as the circumstances of the case admit, stop her engines, and then navigate with caution until danger of collision is over.

Steering and Sailing Rules.

Preliminary—Risk of Collision.

Risk of collision can, when circumstances permit, be ascertained by carefully watching the compass bearing of an approaching vessel. If the bearing does not appreciably change, such risk should be deemed to exist.

Article 17.—When two sailing vessels are approching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other, as follows, viz :—

(a) A vessel which is running free shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled.

(b) A vessel which is close hauled on the port tack shall keep out of the way of a vessel which is close-hauled on the starboard tack.

(c) When both are running free, with the wind on different sides, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other.

(d) When both are running free, with the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward.

(e) A vessel which has the wind aft shall keep out of the way of the other vessel.

Article 18.—When two steam vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, so as to involve risk of collision, each shall alter her course to starboard, so that each may pass on the per side of the other.

This Article only applies to cases where vessels are meeting end on, or nearly end on, in such a manner as to involve risk of collision, and does not apply to two vessels which must, if both keep on their respective courses, pass clear of each other.

* In all cases where the Rules require a bell to be used, a drum may be substituted on board Turkish vessels, or a gong where such articles are used on board shall sea-going vessels.

The only cases to which it does apply are when each of the two vessels is end on, or nearly end on, to the other; in other words to cases in which, by day, each vessel sees the masts of the other in a line, or nearly in a line, with her own; and, by night, to cases in which each vessel is in such a position as to see both the side-lights of the other.

It does not apply, by day, to cases in which a vessel sees another ahead crossing her own course; or by night to cases where the red light of one vessel is opposed to the red light of the other, or where the green light of one vessel is opposed to the green light of the other, or where a red light without a green light, or a green light without a red light, is seen ahead, or where both green and red lights are seen any where but ahead.

Article 19.—When two steam vessels are crossing, so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way of the other.

Article 20.—When a steam vessel and a sailing vessel are proceeding in such directions as to involve risk of collision, the steam vessel shall keep out of the way of the sailing vessel.

Article 21.—Where by any of the Rules one of two vessels is to keep out of the way, the other shall keep her course and speed.

Note.—When, in consequence of thick weather or other causes, such vessel finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the giving-way vessel alone, she also shall take such action as will best aid to avert collision. (See articles 27 and 29.)

Article 22.—Every vessel which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other.

Article 23.—Every steam vessel, which is directed by these Rules to keep out of the way of another vessel shall on approaching her, if necessary, slacken her speed or stop or reverse.

Article 24.—Notwithstanding anything contained in these Rules, every vessel, overtaking any other, shall keep out of the way of the overtaken vessel.

Every vessel coming up with another vessel from any direction more than two points abaft, her beam, i.e., in such a position, with reference to the vessel which she is overtaking, that at night she would be unable to see either of that vessel's side-lights, shall be deemed to be an overtaking vessel; and no subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules, or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

As by day the overtaking vessel cannot always know with certainty whether she is forwarded of or abaft this direction from the other vessel, she should, if in doubt, assume that she is an overtaking vessel and keep out of the way.

Article 25.—In narrow channels every steam vessel shall, when it is safe and practicable, keep to that side of fair-way or mid channel which lies on the starboard side of such vessel.

Article 26.—Sailing vessels under way shall keep out of the way of sailing vessels or boats fishing with nets or lines, or trawls. This Rule shall not give to any vessel or boat engaged in fishing the right of obstructing a fairway used by vessels other than fishing-vessels or boats.

Article 27.—In obeying and construing these Rules, due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision, and to any special circumstances which may render a departure from the above rules necessary in order to avoid immediate danger.

Sound Signals for Vessels in Sight of one another.

Article 28.—The words "short blast" used in this Article shall mean a blast of about one seconds duration

When vessels are in sight of one another, a steam vessel under way, in taking any course authorized or required by these Rules, shall indicate that course by the following signals on her whistle or siren, viz.:—

One short blast to mean, "I am directing my course to starboard."
Two short blasts to mean, "I am directing my course to port."
Three short blasts to mean, "My engines are going full speed astern."

No Vessel under any Circumstances to neglect proper Precautions.

Article 29.—Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, or master, or crew, thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to carry lights or signals, or of any neglect to keep a proper look-out, or of the neglect of any precaution which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.

Reservation of Rules for Harbours and Inland Navigation.

Article 30.—Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of a special rule, duly made by local authority, relative to the navigation of any harbour, river, or inland waters.

SCHEDULE II.

Distress Signals.

Article 31.—When a vessel is in distress and requires assistance from other vessels or from the shore, the following shall be the signals to be used or displayed by her, either together or separately, viz. :—

In the day time—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. The International Code signal of distress indicated by N C;
3. The distance signal, consisting of a square flag, having either above or below it a ball or anything resembling a ball;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

A night—

1. A gun or other explosive signal fired at intervals of about a minute;
2. Flames on the vessel (as from a burning tar-barrel, oil-barrel, etc.);
3. Rockets or shells, throwing stars of any colour or description, fired one at a time, at short intervals;
4. A continuous sounding with any fog-signal apparatus.

Those students who may be selected are expected to enter formally and commence attendance at the College upon the 14th, and none will be admitted at any later date.

2. No person shall be enrolled as a matriculated student who has not previously passed the First Arts examination of the Calcutta or an Indian University, or a preliminary Arts examination of the United Kingdom recognised by the British General Medical Council.

3. All matriculated students of the College must pay Rs. 15 on entrance, Rs. 35 on the 1st June, and Rs. 35 on 1st November of each year. Rupees 6 extra will be required from each student for each course of dissections. Fees once paid cannot be refunded.

4. No free presentations will be awarded at the beginning of the session, but the fees shall be refunded to the 10 students who passed highest in all subjects at the end of their first year of study.

5. Any matriculated student of the College may, with the permission of the Principal and the Professor of the subject, attend courses of lectures or departments of hospital practice in addition to the full curriculum for the year, and shall be entitled to certificates of attendance at such extra lectures, if the Professor is satisfied that he or she has really studied the subject. The fees payable in advance for such additional courses are the following:—

	Rs.
For a single course of lectures on each subject in one year ...	40
For six months' attendance in each department of hospital practice ...	60

6. Any matriculated student who leaves the College before completing his University course, with the object of continuing his studies at a medical school in Europe, may receive certificates of attendance of lectures on payment of fees at the rate fixed in the foregoing rule. But in calculating the sum to be so paid, the amount of the fees already paid by him as a regular student, or, in the case of a free student, the amount which would have been paid by him had he been a paying student, shall be deducted.

7. Any person not being a matriculated student of the College who wishes to attend any course of lectures, or any department of hospital practice, may do so with the permission of the Principal and Professor of the subject on payment, in advance, of fees at the rates fixed in paragraph 5. Those who pass the examination with 20 per cent. in two subjects and 15 per cent. in a third will be entitled to go up in the following March or April for the Preliminary Scientific Examination of the Calcutta University, the subjects of which are Chemistry and Botany. Those who (after passing the College test) fail at the University examination will be entitled, equally with those who pass it, to join the third-year class, at the end of which the former will have to present themselves, as at present, for the combined Preliminary Scientific and 1st L.M.S. (or 1st M.B.) examination.

10. Those students who fail at the College test examination of the second year will not be debarred from going up for the Preliminary Scientific examination, but will be encouraged to do so in order to get that stage over; but whether they pass or fail at the University examination, they will be relegated for a further year to the second-year class, provided that those who pass the University examination will not be required to attend the courses in those subjects in which they have passed.

11. Students of the third year will present themselves for the 1st L.M.S. or 1st M.B. examination of the Calcutta University. Those who fail at this examination will be relegated for a further year to the third-year class.

12. Students of the first or second-year class who fail a second time, at the same stage, to gain promotion to the next higher class, will be removed from the College and will not be entitled to re-admission. 14. Students who fail at the 2nd L.M.S or 2nd M.B. examination will have to attend a further course of lectures in the subject or subjects in which they have failed, in accordance with the regulations of the University.

ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE BENGAL METEOROLOGICAL DEPARTMENT FOR 1896-97.

THE following report is published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

REV. DEPT., M. FINUCANE,

The 8th June 1897. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

1. MR. PEDLER having vacated from 28th April 1896, I was appointed Meteorological Reporter to the Government of Bengal from that date and continued to be in charge of the Department till the end of the year.

2. By an arrangement made during the past year, the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India has taken direct charge of the following observatories, and my connection with them is limited to the receipt of meteorological information, chiefly by telegram:—

OBSERVATORIES SITUATED IN—

Assam.	Burma.	Madras.	Sikkim.	Tibet.
1	2	3	4	5
Dhubri ...	Akyab ..	Coconada ...	Gantak ...	Yatung.
Sibsagar ...	Tavoy ..	Cuddalore ...
Silchar ...		Gopalpur ...
Tura ...		Nellore ...

3. The number of observatories which were under my direct control and which submitted reports to the Bengal Meteorological office was 48 on the 31st March 1897. During the year, the troops which were at Gnatong were withdrawn, and the Civil Hospital Assistant, who was in charge of the Gnatong observatory having been ordered by the Political officer, Sikkim, to leave the station, there was no one left who could be entrusted with the duty of taking meteorological observations there. The observatory was closed from 13th November 1896. On the other hand, the Cooch Behar State having expressed a desire to establish a third class meteorological observatory at Cooch Behar, a full set of meteorological instruments was supplied. The observatory was started on the 20th February 1897.

4. The following table will show the names and distribution of the 48 observatories which are under the direct control of the Bengal Reporter:—

Second class observatories.	Third class observatories.		Voluntary observatories.

6. As stated above, the observatories named in this table are not under the control of the Bengal Reporter. But weather telegrams were daily received from the stations named in columns 2, 3, 4 and 5 throughout the year and for a part of the year, viz., 1st May to 31st October, from the Assam stations named in column 1. Reports on post card forms were also received for the remainder of the year from the Assam stations.

7. Meteorological observations were, as usual, recorded at the observatory situated at the Meteorological Office, Chowringhee, at 10 A.M., daily, and were regularly published in the Calcutta Gazette every week throughout the year. Monthly abstracts were also published in the Gazette.

8. Inspection of observatories.—Twenty-one out of 48 observatories were visited during the past year. Chaibassa and Burdwan were visited twice. Hence altogether 23 visits of inspection were paid to the Bengal observatories as shown below. Generally speaking, the condition of the observatories inspected were satisfactory, with the exception of Arrah, Comilla, Jalpaiguri, and Rangpur, which were found not to be in the same good order as those in other parts of the province. In connection with Comilla it may be noted that the observatory had not been inspected during the past nine years, and the present observer had not the benefit of the advice and instruction which may be gained from a visit of inspection.

9. The following table shows the names of observatories that were visited and other particulars in connection therewith. As the publication of the daily report makes it impossible for me to leave Calcutta even for a day, Babu Jati Lal De was deputed to do the work of inspection. He inspected these observatories under my direct orders :—

10. The following is a very brief statement of the facts requiring notice in connection with certain observatories that were inspected:—

Arrah.—In January 1897 the observer at Arrah having taken leave, the meteorological work was left in the hands of the Officiating Sub-Post Master, who was found to be entirely ignorant of the duties with which he was entrusted. He had to be thoroughly trained by the Instructor.

Burdwan.—The chief object of the visit to Burdwan on the first occasion was to arrange for comparative observations being taken in the new and old sheds. This was necessary owing to the site of the old shed having been taken up for the extension of the Magistrate's Court. Everything was satisfactorily arranged, but the action of the District Engineer in urging the necessity of pulling down the old shed compelled me to discontinue the comparative observations after they were taken for only a few days, although it was afterwards reported to me that the old shed remained intact for months. The observatory was again visited by the Instructor on the 12th December 1896 to arrange with the District Engineer for the removal of the lime kilns which he had erected close to the new shed without any reference to me. They were removed some time after the visit.

Bhagalpur.—The shed required urgent repairs. These have since been executed.

Chaibassa.—Owing to want of a better situation, the barometer was allowed to remain in a dimly lighted corner of the Education Committee's office, and in consequence the observer had difficulty in reading the barometer correctly, more especially on cloudy days. On the second occasion of the Instructor's visit in October 1896, it was removed, with the permission of the Head-master of the Zilla School to an adjoining room and placed in the same level as in its previous position. The arrangement of light in this position is much better, and it appears that there has been a decided improvement in the observations submitted since that time.

Chittagong.—The primary object of the visit was to set up a Dine's pressure tube anemometer which was supplied by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India for experimental use at that observatory. Owing to there being no support for the wind vane of the instrument on the roof of the telegraph office building, the anemometer could not be brought into immediate use. But the method of its working was explained to the observer and instructions left for its erection, which has since been effected. At the instance of the Superintendent of Telegraphs, Arakan Division, anemograph observations at Chittagong were discontinued from 1st January 1897, and the observer's allowance was reduced to Rs. 23 a month.

Comilla.—The observatory was found to be in a very bad condition at the time of the inspection. The wind vane and wet bulb hygrometer were defective, and, from the general condition of the observatory, it could readily be inferred that the observer took very little interest in the work.

Jalpaiguri.—The chief cause of the unsatisfactory condition of this observatory is the frequent change of observers, resulting in the submission, at times, of most inaccurate observations. Such was the case in October last, when, after a change of observers, wrong barometric readings were recorded for some time. Another change took place before the inspection visit in February 1897, when it was found that the new observer required instructions in the correct reading of the barometer. He has since resigned his appointment, and the observatory at present is in charge of a thoroughly trained observer.

Jessore.—During the past winter months, the observations of the dry minimum thermometer were found to be of doubtful value. On an examination of the thermometer during the inspection, it was found to be defective, which explained to some extent the cause of the wrong readings. The observer also seemed not to pay as much attention to his meteorological duties as he used formerly to do.

Rangpur.—It was not in a very good condition at the time of the inspection. The work of the observatory was found to have been divided between too signallers acting as observer in alternate months. The result of this division of work was that neither of the observers looked after the observatory, which was much in want of supervision. Since then, Mr. Bowers, who is an old observer of the department, has been transferred to Rangpur and has taken over charge of the observatory from the signallers.

Saugor Island.—A Dine's pressure tube anemometer, supplied by the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India for experimental use at Saugor Island, was erected by the Instructor when he visited this observatory. The barometer was not in good condition, and has since been replaced by a new instrument. The assistant observer, Mr. DeSouza, was examined by the instructor and found well up to his duties. He remarks:—

"Saugor Island is one of the most important stations in connection with the Bay of Bengal storm signal service, and it is satisfactory to note that there is at least one observer (Mr. DeSouza) at this station who is well acquainted with the meteorological work."

11. Second Class observatories.—Of the second class observatories that were not visited during the past year, Berhampore, Cuttack, Darbhanga and Narayanganj submitted accurate observations. Some of the thermometric observations reported from the Darjeeling observatory were of doubtful value, and the observer at False Point seemed to read the instruments with less care than his predecessors. False Point being one of the important stations in the Bay of Bengal storm signal service, it is highly desirable that both the Light-house keeper and his assistant should do their utmost to improve the character of the observations in future.

12. Third Class observatories.—All the third class observatories that were not visited during the past year submitted satisfactory observations, with the exception of Barisal, Faridpur and Muzaffarpur, the observers at these three stations remaining as careless as ever.

13. Voluntary observatories.—As stated before, the Cooch Behar observatory was started on the 20th February 1897. The instruments were supplied by the Meteorological Department free of cost on condition that observations were supplied to this office. The Civil Surgeon's clerk, the newly appointed observer, was thoroughly trained by Babu Jati Lal De, who remained at Cooch Behar for some days at the time of opening the observatory.

Under the superintendence of the present Civil Medical Officer, Dr. Raj Mohan Banerji, the Daltonganj observatory has improved, and the observations submitted seem to be more satisfactory than was the case before.

Both Demagiri and Lunglek have continued to submit thermometric observations—taken at 10 A.M. and 4 P.M. at the former, and at 8 A.M. only at the latter station.

Meteorological work was continued at Shortt's Island throughout the year.

14. In connection with the second and third class meteorological observatories, it may be stated that by orders of the Government of India the observatory buildings were transferred to the charge of the Public Works Department from 1st April 1896, from which date the repairs to the sheds, &c., have been carried out by that department.

15. Awards for storm and special observations.—The following observers have received awards for storm or other special observations, such as hot wind and thunderstorm observations, which were recorded under the direction of the Meteorological Reporter to the Government of India at certain observatories during the past year:—

Station.	Amount.	Station.	Amount.
1	2	1	2
	Rs.		Rs.
Barisal	11	Jessore	2
Bhagalpur	3	Krishnagar	1
Burdwan	7	Mymensingh ...	3
Chapra	3	Narayanganj ...	6
Chittagong	2	Patna	18
False Point ...	1	Puri	4
Gaya	3	Saugor Island ...	11
Hazaribagh	28	Shortt's Island ...	60

16. Work at, and inspection of, rain-gauge stations.—The number of rain-gauge stations on the 31st March 1897 was 328. Three new stations, viz., Setabganj (in Dinajpur district) and Bhoroh and Darauli (in Saran) were started, and two stations, viz., Karmala (in Puri) and Gnatong, were closed during the past year.

17. The Government of Bengal have repeatedly drawn the attention of District Officers to the necessity of frequent inspection of rain-gauges, their last circular being No. 1Agri., dated 6th January 1897. From inspection reports received in this office it appears that only 95 stations out of 328 were inspected during the past year, as against 101 out of 327 stations in 1895-96 and 120 out of 325 stations in 1894-95. Some of the stations were visited twice, or even oftener, during the year. In this way 133 visits of inspection were paid to the rain-gauge stations, the largest number being inspected by Dr. Crawford, Civil Surgeon of Monghyr, and Dr. Kelly, Civil Medical Officer of the Sonthal Parganas. The returns from the rainfall stations were submitted with greater accuracy and punctuality during the past year than in previous years. There have of course, been instances where the reverse has been the case, but they were fewer in number.

18. Owing to the weekly meteorological and rainfall table having been discontinued from 1st May, the daily rainfall report on C form was discontinued, and as a check on the weekly report monthly forms on post card were introduced.

19. Departmental reports:—The short annual report on the meteorology of Bengal in the year 1895, with two maps illustrating the actual and percentage rainfall, was prepared and submitted to the Government of Bengal on the 22nd July 1896 for incorporation in the Administration Report.

20. The report on the meteorology of Bengal for the monsoon season of 1896 was prepared and submitted to Government with the usual number of illustrative charts prepared by hand. It was submitted to the Government of Bengal on the 14th December 1896 and published in the Calcutta Gazette of the 16th December 1896.

21. In paragraph 36 of the Administration Report of last year, it was said that a scheme was submitted to the Government of Bengal suggesting the discontinuance of the publication of the weekly meteorological and rainfall tables in the Calcutta Gazette. Mr. Pedler's proposals received the sanction of Government, and, accordingly, the publication of the weekly report was discontinued from May 1896.

22. The monthly rainfall table of Bengal and the Meteorological table of Bengal and Assam continued to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, the 8 A.M. meteorological observations taken at the voluntary observatories at Shortt's Island and Lungleh being included in the table.

23. The charts showing the distribution of actual rainfall, the variation from the normal and the percentage rainfall in Bengal were prepared by hand during the monsoon season, viz., May to October 1896, and submitted to the Government of Bengal and the Sanitary Commissioner of Bengal.

24. On the 17th March 1896 Mr. Pedler addressed the Government of Bengal on the subject of issuing only one daily weather report during the monsoon period instead of two as has been the case since 1883. The Government of Bengal sanctioned the proposal of amalgamating the two weather reports, and a report dealing with the observations taken at 64 meteorological observatories, including those on the coast of the Bay of Bengal from Tavoy to Pamban, Trincomalee and *Colombo in Ceylon, Dhubri, Sibsagar and Silchar in Assam, and the inland stations of Bengal, was published from May to October 1896. During the remainder of the year, viz., April 1896 and November 1896 to March 1897, the Bay of Bengal weather report dealing only with the observations taken at 28 stations round the coast of the Bay of Bengal was issued. Both the reports were issued to the subscribers in Calcutta between 11 and 1 o'clock in the forenoon. The money collected from the subscribers to the report was paid into the Bank of Bengal to the credit of Government, the lithographic establishment being now paid by Government instead of from the money realized by the sale of the Bay of Bengal weather report, as had previously been the case.

25. The daily flag signal message to Saugor Island and the daily weather telegram to the Port authorities at Madras, Akyab, Rangoon, Negapatam and Coconada were continued throughout the year. This weather telegram was sent to the Port Officer, Chittagong, from 16th May to 15th November as usual.

26. The system of forwarding meteorological information from the pilot brigs at the Sandheads by flag hoists and that of forwarding a telegraphic summary of the weather experienced by commanders of the steamers of the British India Steam Navigation Company during their voyages from Madras to Rangoon, Calcutta to Rangoon, etc., have been continued.

27. The thanks of the department are due to the tea and indigo planters, to the Moravian missionaries at Pedong, and to Mr. Hobson of Yatung (in Tibet) who have kindly sent rainfall returns during the past year. The thanks of the department are due to the Surveyor-General, Ceylon, for sending meteorological observations taken at Colombo and Trincomalee for the daily weather report and to Messrs. Mackinnon, Mackenzie & Company, the agents of the British India Steam Navigation Company, for allowing the Commanders of their vessels to telegraph the summary of the weather experienced during their voyages.

28. The Astronomer, G. V. Juggarow observatory at Vizagapatam, and the Proof Officer, Balasore, were added to the list of officers who receive warning of storms in the Bay. Telegrams warning officers of expected heavy rainfall were sent to—

Storm signals.

* Colombo was substituted for Galle since May 1896.

Superintending Engineer, Orissa Circle, Cuttack.
Executive Engineer, Cossye Division, Midnapore.
Ditto, Ditto, Jajepur Division, Akhoyapada.
Ditto, Ditto, Balasore Division, Balasore.

29. There has been no change in the system of working the storm signals.

30. The dates of the principal storms and barometric depressions occurring during the past year are given in the first of the two following tables, and the action taken in the matter of issuing storm warnings and hoisting storm signals is indicated in the second of these tables.

Table giving a brief statement of the storms which affected the Bay of Bengal coasts during the year 1896.

Number of storm.	Period of depression or storm.	Character of storm.	Coast affected.
1	June 17th to 19th ...	Cyclonic storm from the extreme south of the Bay advanced almost d ie northwards, till the centre was near Calcutta on the morning of the 19th, and after remaining stationary there for several hours it moved away to the west As it led to the establishment of the monsoon current over the Bay heavy rain followed its advance, but it was confined to the south of the province, the high pressure in North Bengal being sufficient to check its influence extending in that direction.	Orissa and Bengal coasts.
2	June 26th to 29th ...	Barometric depression, which began to form in the north-east of the Bay and before changing its position attained to greater depth than is usual during the monsoon season. It moved west-north-west, passing over south-west Bengal and Chota Nagpur. The depression was much deeper than is usual at the end of June, the lowest reading observed being under 29 inches.	Orissa and Bengal coasts.
3	July 13th and 14th ...	Barometric depression formed off the coast of the Circars on the 13th. It was very shallow and of short duration, as on the 14th it had crossed the coast between Vizagapatam and Gopalpur, having caused no disturbance, except rather heavy rainfall on that part of the coast.	Circars and Ganjam coasts.
4	July 22nd and 23rd ...	Barometric depression, which became well-defined, with a considerable defect over the Sundarbans and the extreme north of the Bay on the 22nd. Stormy weather prevailed over the sea; but as the area of lowest pressure remained to the south of the province comparatively fine weather prevailed at inland stations, except in the south-west, where rain was falling in moderate amounts. On the 23rd the centre of the depression was near Balasore, and on the 24th it had passed out of the province.	Orissa and Bengal coasts.
5	July 26th and 27th ...	Cyclonic storm formed in the same place as the preceding depression. It immediately began to move towards the west, and at 8 A. M. of the 27th the centre was close to Saugor Island. This disturbance was the most severe experienced during the year, but the rainfall caused by it in Bengal was very slight owing to the low pressure which continued over the north of the Bay.	Orissa and Bengal coasts.
6	August 1st and 2nd ...	Barometric depression formed with its centre a little to the south or south-east of Saugor Island on the 1st. The centre of the disturbance moved rather slowly to the west, and was near Balasore on the 2nd The stormy weather which the depression caused was confined largely to the west of the Bay. Heavy rain fell in the south of Orissa during the formation and passage of the disturbance, but only light showers were received in Lower Bengal, and very little in the northern districts.	Orissa and Ganjam coasts.
7	August 11th to 14th ...	Very shallow barometric depression formed in the north-west angle of the Bay off the coast of Orissa, where it developed slightly. The centre crossed the coast in a north-westerly direction between False Point and Balasore.	Orissa coast.

8	September 14th to 18th	Shallow barometric depression formed over the north of the Bay and the Sundarbans and moved very slowly and followed an irregular path, first to the west into Chota Nagpur, and then to the north-east into North Bengal. The disturbance gave very nearly the amount of rainfall, normal, for September, to all parts of the province, except the western districts of Bihar.	Orissa and Bengal coasts.
9	November 9th to 14th ...	Barometric depression, which began in the south of the Bay on the 9th and crossed the extreme south of the Peninsula on the 14th. This disturbance appears to have followed a curved path up the Arabian Sea, and crossed the Bombay coast on the 20th or 21st. It then turned eastward and drifted slowly, becoming daily more diffused till it filled up some days later in Bengal.	South India and Coromandel coasts.
10	November 24th to 27th...	Barometric depression formed in the south-west of the Bay and moved slowly westward. The centre crossed the coast on the 27th near Cuddalore, and a burst of monsoon winds followed. This depression had no effect on conditions in the north of the Bay or in Bengal.	Coromandel coast.
11	December 8th to 12th ...	Barometric depression developed suddenly in the south-east of the Bay, causing strong winds as far north as Diamond Island. Though the depression showed signs of moving into the north of the Bay, it filled up quickly, leaving only squally weather over the south of the Bay.	Burma coast.
12	December 16th and 17th	Barometric depression of considerable depth formed in the extreme south of the Bay. Stormy weather prevailed over the south of the Bay, and the depression passed westward, followed by heavy rain.	South India and Coromandel coasts.

Office establishment.

The various members of my office establishment have as in previous years worked satisfactorily under what are, no doubt, at times, trying circumstances. The early publication of the daily weather report requires their attendance at 8·30 A.M. on all days, not even excepting Sundays and gazetted holidays—an arrangement which has been somewhat more trying since the two reports have been amalgamated during the monsoon season.

STATISTICAL DEPARTMENT,
The 8th June 1897.

Memorandum.

The sea-borne import and export traffic of Calcutta in food-grains during the 10 days from 22nd to 31st May 1896, and the corresponding period of 1897, is shown in the following statement:—

Imports.—There was an immense increase in the total imports into Calcutta, viz., 315,986 cwts., against 16,838 cwts. in the last 10 days of May 1896. The improvement was, as usual, due to large shipments of rice (221,767 cwts.) and paddy (60,520 cwts.) from Burma, against nil in the corresponding period in 1896. While the supplies of rice from Balasore declined by 6,021 cwts., those from Chandbali amounted to 15,282 cwts. against nothing in the last 10 days of May 1896.

Exports.—In the following statement the total quantity of each kind of food-grain exported by sea during the last 10 days of May 1897 is compared with the figures for the corresponding period of 1896 :—

Foreign Ports.

The exports of food-grains from Calcutta declined from 118,322 cwts. in the 10 days ending 31st May 1896 to 76,243 cwts. in the period under review. The chief fluctuations were a decrease of 23,558 cwts. of rice to Ceylon, 22,160 cwts. to Natal, and 9,570 cwts. to the United Kingdom; on the other hand there was a shipment of 28,377 cwts. of rice to States in Arabia other than Muscat against nil in the last ten days of May 1896. The United Kingdom took no wheat during the 10 days ending 31st May 1897, against 7,006 cwts. in the corresponding period of 1896; the exports of gram and pulses to that country also fell off by 6,149 cwts.

Indian Ports.

The decrease of 16,144 cwts. in the exports of food-grains to Indian ports was chiefly due to the consignment of rice to Bombay having been only 499 cwts. against 13,017 cwts. in the last 10 days of May 1896.

Detailed statements showing the sources of supply and the places of destination, both as regards Foreign and Indian ports, are given below:—

Imports. The import trade of Chittagong, which amounted to 18,161 cwts., showed a rise of 14,899 cwts. chiefly on account of larger receipts of rice and paddy from Burma. The trade of Narayanganj and Balasore also improved by 1,469 cwts. and 128 cwts. respectively.

Exports. Owing to the cessation of exports to both Indian and Foreign ports, the export trade of Chittagong and Cuttack declined by 735 cwts. and 13,850 cwts. respectively, while the falling off of 8,231 cwts. under Balasore is attributed to smaller despatches of paddy to Calcutta. The improvement of 1,313 cwts. and 11,842 cwts. under Narayanganj and Puri, respectively, was due to despatches of rice to Chittagong and Mauritius against nil in the previous year.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·5° higher; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.
